'STARVATION' REPORTED IN OHIO CITIES

BRICKER, LA GUARDIA MIX

Governor Says He Has Pointed Out Ways and Means of Meeting Situation.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — A survey declaring needy Ohioans were living under "unbelievable" conditions was made public today in the wake of a sharp word exchange between the Buckeye state's governor on one side, and New York's mayor and the chief of WPA on the other, over the relief crisis.

In Toledo the council of social agencies, reporting interviews by 50 investigators, declared:

"There were many cases in actual want and acute need—where persons were starving.

"Investigators reported many of the potential relief clients were living under unbelievable conditions. Many people were picking up scraps—scavenging."

Officials of Toledo and Cleveland, both industrial centers, have declared themselves at wit's ends to solve their relief dilemmas without state aid.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, in an address there, quoted Gov. Bricker as saying, "we should stop waste and extravagant use of public funds and federal expenditures for social betterment." La Guardia declared.

"I call upon Gov. Bricker to take back those words and provide the necessary funds to take care of the people starving in Cleveland and elsewhere in his state."

Denies Statement.

Gov. Bricker flatly denied having made such an assertion, adding:

"Mayor La Guardia was not elected governor of Ohio, and as I understand it he has plenty to do in New York. When we need him in Ohio, we will send for him."

In Washington Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, termed "unwarranted, in accurate and partisan" a statement by Gov. Bricker to the effect any acute relief problem in Cleveland "is due at least in part to political manipulation of WPA."

Cleveland's Mayor Harold H. Burton, who with officials of other Ohio cities has urged Gov. Bricker to call the legislature to deal with the relief problem, declared the state should bear half its cities' relief load in 1940 and 1941.

The state's contributions

Say Seized Nazis On Yacht Planned To Sail Atlantic

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Official sources said today that a group of German sailors aboard the 43-foot yacht Lekala, apprehended by the coast guard yesterday off the North Carolina coast, intended to contact a German vessel at sea or sail directly to their homeland.

The Germans, officials said, had been members of a Standard Oil company tanker crew stranded in the United States.

They acquired the use of the yacht, it was learned, and prepared to sail out to sea either to contact a German ship, or perhaps submarine, or even attempt the hazards of the Atlantic and the British blockade in sailing to Germany.

German agencies were silent about the seizure, effected yesterday by the coast guard. The coast guard referred all inquiries to the justice department, and officials there would not comment.

Russia Will Turn on Sweden, Norway Next, Declares Knickerbocker Who Thinks Germany Won't Block Reds

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Writer.

NEW YORK—Russia's invasion of Finland presages a Soviet invasion of Sweden and Norway, in the opinion of H. R. Knickerbocker, famous International News Service war correspondent, now in New York.

In an interview today he characterized the Russian bombardment of Finland as "the most monstrous, most abominable crime in modern history" and the most significant thing that has happened since the World war broke out in 1914.

"There is every evidence Russia intends to invade Sweden and Norway," said Knickerbocker. "Stalin wants that Swedish ore. Hitler won't like it but some day he may have to pay Russia for that ore—and like it."

Knickerbocker, who up to quite recently, has been with the Allied forces at the front, took advantage of the lull in fighting along the west wall to clipper across to the United States.

The young, red-haired Pulitzer prize-winning journalist said the American war correspondents were becoming a bit fed up because of the lack of fighting along the western front and expressed the opinion that those with the Allied forces in France will have little to write about before next spring.

He praised the courage and ability of the Finnish soldiers but could not see how they could hold out against the vastly superior Russian forces.

"It is only a question of time before the Russians will execute every person in Finland who has a high school education or $100 to his name. That's what they did in Poland."

Russia can be stopped in its western invasion of Europe only by the Allies, in Knickerbocker's opinion. He said Germany has neither the intention nor the power to stop the move of the Soviets into the Scandinavian states.

"Germany and Russia have made a gangster pact and are proceeding in true gangster style," he said. "Germany will not turn against Russia."

If the war lasts long enough, there is a

U.S. PORTRAYED AS POTENTIAL FOE OF JAPAN

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO — The United States was portrayed in the press today as the potential foe of Japan, replacing Soviet Russia in that position.

Although Yakichiro Suma, the foreign office spokesman, declared that strengthening of the American fleet in the Orient was not regarded by Japan as a threat, the newspaper Miyako took a different view.

"If America does not want war with Japan, she must reconsider her attitude toward this country," it was stated editorially.

On Dec. 1, the United States fleet at Manila was augmented by arrival of six 1,400-ton submarines, announced as intended for normal replacement purposes. No announcement was made regarding disposition of six older-type submarines already at Manila, however.

Miyako said the Japanese believed the naval move was designed to intimidate Japan into meeting American terms for a new trade treaty. The old treaty, denounced by the United States, is scheduled to expire Jan. 26.

Anti-U. S. Feeling Grows.

Mikayo said Japan long had regarded a war with Soviet Russia as inevitable, but never had believed in the possibility of a conflict with the United States.

"But lately," it said, "Japanese sentiment toward the Soviet Union has been greatly appeased, while sentiment against the United States has greatly stiffened.

Suma, speaking officially, denied the fleet question had entered into recent conversations between Foreign Minister Admiral Kichisburo Nomura and United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew.

The question of Japanese-American relations has come increasingly to the fore with imminence of the treaty's expiration date and since Grew declared in a speech Oct. 19 that Americans resented interference with their rights by the Japanese army in China.

STAR IN CRASH

Joe E. Brown Seriously Hurt in Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Joe E. Brown, wide-mouthed comedian, was injured seriously today in an automobile collision in the heart of Hollywood. He was unconscious when taken to the California hospital and his condition was reported critical.

Police said Brown's car, traveling at high speed, collided with another machine, turned end over end for 275 feet and crashed down a 30 foot embankment.

Charles E. Weaver, 56, of Montrose, driver of the other car, suffered minor injuries and was given treatment on the scene by a crew from a private ambulance.

FIGHT BAR MOVE

Cincinnati Lawyers Open Fight On Integration Plan.

CINCINNATI —(INS)— A group of Cincinnati attorneys today mapped plans to oppose the proposed "integration" of the Ohio bar.

Bar "integration" provides for compulsory membership in the state organization along with the stipulation that disbarment proceedings must be conducted in Columbus by a "lawyer jury" appointed by the association. Harry H. Shafer was elected chairman of the committee to fight the move in Cincinnati.

If Sweden should be the next Baltic country to feel the might of the giant Rusian army as International News Service's expert, H. R. Knickerbocker, believes, the invader will encounter a small but well equipped army and a populace determined not to lose its freedom without a fight. At top is a detachment of Swedish troops on the march. At lower left is a new-type double barreled anti-aircraft gun of the Swedish navy. At lower right are some Swedish tanks, important units in the defense forces.

3 BANKS TRIM INTEREST RATE

Reduction Effective Jan. 1; Discontinue Interest on Christmas Savings.

Three Mansfield banking institutions announced today that effective Jan. 1, the interest on all savings accounts would be reduced and that all four banks in the city would discontinue interest on Christmas accounts.

Today's announcement was made by the Farmers Savings and Trust, Mansfield Savings Trust National bank and the Richland Trust company. Beginning Jan. 1 they will pay one and a half per cent interest on all savings accounts up to $2,000, and one per cent on accounts over $2,000.

Mansfield's fourth bank, the

STATE FIGHTS FEVER SPREAD

Ohio Announces Plan to Cancel Any Imports of Rabbits.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—In an effort to prevent the spread of tularemia, the state conservation division announced today that it would import no more rabbits until guaranteed disease-free stock is available. No rabbits have been bought for spring distribution.

Game for restocking purposes is being gathered from propogation areas, institutional grounds, game farms, nurseries and other places where hunting is prohibited.

Tularemia, which has been extremely prevalent in Ohio this year, is contracted from handling diseased rabbits.

TULAREMIA VICTIM DIES

MT. VERNON — (U.P.) —Mrs. Edna E. Hunter, 42, died today, the second victim of tularamia here within a week. Her son, Dale, also is ill with the so-called rabbit fever.

SHOVEL BREAKS 12-INCH MAIN

A large area in the northwest section of the city was without water for more than two hours yesterday after a steam shovel working at the new Bowman street bridge cut into a 12-inch water line supplying the north side.

A pressure of 150 pounds carried in the big line sent the water spouting into the air after the break. Business concerns with refrigeration plants as well as many householders suddenly found themselves without water.

It was more than two hours before city workmen had the line temporarily repaired and service resumed.

When the bridge construction was started the water line was lifted and by-passed around the bridge above the ground, Mayor Claude M. Hunter said. A steam shovel owned by the Purdy Construction company struck the line yesterday afternoon.

Hunter said the repairs would be made by the city but that the construction company would be asked to pay for it. No estimate had been made today on the cost.

ACCUSED, GETS SANITY TEST

HAMILTON, O.— (U.P.) —Homer O. Williams, 24, accused of shooting at a Miami university co-ed, Maxine Edwards of Navarre, O., who had spurned his attentions, was to be committed today to the Lima State Hospital for Criminal Insane for a 30-day observation. William had pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity.

Link Circleville Bandits With Gang That Robbed Galion Bank

Search for four armed bandits who held up the Circleville Savings and Banking company yesterday and escaped with $11,500 was widened today as authorities expressed the belief that the same gang was responsible for several central Ohio hold-ups.

Dispatches from Circleville said the license plates of the robbers' car yesterday tallied with those used in the First Federal and Loan company robbery at Galion Aug. 15 which netted $1,042.

The car also fitted the description of the one used July 17 when the Clintonville Federal Savings and Loan company at Columbus was robbed of $960.

When the Galion bank was robbed, state highway patrolmen at that time expressed the opinion that the gunmen were the same that held up the Peoples Loan and Savings company at Bucyrus and escaped with $600 and the Willard United bank of $10,000 three months previous.

The state highway patrol set up its blockade system in an attempt to apprehend the bandits yesterday, but today reported the gang had apparently made good its escape.

Four employes and seven customers were held at bay by the three unmasked men who entered the bank. A fourth remained in their automobile. This was the same method used by the stick-up men at Galion, Bucyrus and Willard.

HALTS MEASURE TURNING RELIEF OVER TO COUNTY

Shultz' Strategy Saves 5 Jobs for Patronage List of New G. O. P. Administration.

A last-minute bit of strategy by Republican Councilman C. N. Shultz last night blocked a move by city officials to turn over the administration of relief to county commissioners.

The move involved legislation which would have authorized Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist to enter into a contract with the commissioners for the administration of city relief for a sum of $550 a month.

Binding only to the extent of carrying on administrative functions, the bill would have placed five city jobs, now exempt from civil service protection, under the jurisdiction of the commissioners.

Shultz blocked passage of the ordinance when he made a motion to table the bill after it had been given three readings and was ready for a vote.

Lack One Vote.

With six Democratic councilmen present apparently sensing that they lacked the necessary seven votes for passage after a lengthy discussion by Shultz and Russell D. Porch, First Ward Republican, who later came to Shultzs' defence, council unanimously accepted the motion to let the issue wait until the next meeting.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter indicated that a special session of council may be called before the first of the year for other purposes at which time the measure could be reconsidered.

Although no opinion was voiced during last night's session, it was indicated in Democratic council circles that the ordinance would not be re-introduced thereby leaving the relief problem up to the incoming administration.

Shultz, who fought passage of the bill on the basis that he wanted to study the plan which Nist said culminated six months effort in convincing commissioners to take over the administration, charged after the meeting that the plan was a "political move."

His argument was based on the Mayor-Elect Takes Trip — to Dodge Job-Seekers?

Mayor-elect William J. Locke who will take over the administration of city affairs in less than four weeks hied himself far from political job seekers today.

With the appointment of C. M. Crafton as service-safety director last week, Locke who has been besieged during the past month by job seekers started out on a two-weeks' vacation this morning.

Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, 17 Highland avenue, Locke with his wife headed by motor for Florida. At his office, employes said they did not expect him back before Dec. 18. They said the party planned to visit Jacksonville and West Palm Beach.

Invaders Try To Slice Finn Nation In Two

Defending Army In North Threatened In Move as Russians Advance One-Fifth of Way Across Country; Finns Discount Soviet Gains.

(By Associated Press)

KIRKENES, Norway (At the Finnish Frontier)—On this 22nd anniversary of Finnish independence, a Russian army was reported to have driven almost a fifth of the way across northern Finland—apparently under orders to cut the country in two.

This army was said to have penetrated 35 miles into Finland, reaching Kuolajarvi, on the seventh day of the war, and leaving only 150 miles to be traversed before Finland would be bisected.

Completion of the drive would put Red forces on the Swedish border. Just beyond the border lie Sweden's rich iron mines. Observers saw in the relentlessly developing Russian strategy a great menace to Sweden—apart from the disaster it might mean for Finnish troops in the far north.

Finnish sources contended the Russian advance was discounted in advance because the region already penetrated is practically uninhabited. The Finns declared the invaders would encounter "unbreakable" resistance when they reached Finnish defense positions west of Kuolajarvi.

The base of this Russian cross-country thrust was reported to be Kandalaksha, at the westernmost extremity of the White sea, railway station nearest the Finnish border in that region. Kandalaksha lies 50 miles east of the Finnish border.

In reaching Kuolajarvi, the Russians also gained access to a good highway running 110 miles northwest to the important communications center of Rovaniemi, where Finland's Arctic highway continues northeast to Petsamo and a railway runs southward to the Gulf of Bothnia between Finland and Sweden.

To support this drive, the Soviet Union continued the landing of thousands of troops along Petsamo Fjord and aerial forays for reconnoitering and bombing.

Finns, fighting stubbornly in the cold and twilight of the Arctic, told of repulsing sporadic Russian attacks and of shooting down a Russian bombing plane. A detachment of 200 Red soldiers, apparently part of the parachute infantry dropped in northern Finland, was said to have been captured near Salmijarvi on the Finnish-Norwegian border.

Thousands of Finns strung all along the nation's lake-studded frontier facing Russia observed Independence day while clinging to their trenches or pillboxes, or giving ground slightly before the Red onslaught.

PACT: Reds Hint Rumania Would Do Well to Sign Pact

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Rumania was urged to sign a mutual assistance pact immediately with the Soviet Union in an article published today in "Communist International," mouthpiece of the international Communist organization.

The publication declared the pact should be similar to the treaties the U. S. S. R. signed recently with Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania through which she gained naval and military bases on the soil of the three Baltic states.

The Comintern article declared:

"English and French reactionary bourgeoisie supported by the American financial oligarchy are striving to involve the small countries in an imperialist war."

Background—Any attempt by Russia to bring Rumania to her knees by force might place Great Britain and France at war with the Soviet Union.

France and Britain on April 13, 1939, pledged themselves to give Rumania full military support if her independence were threatened by aggression. At the same time the allies made a similar pledge to Greece.

In case of a Rumanian-Russian war, Italy too might enter the flay. During recent months Fascist leaders have repeatedly warned the Soviets that any attempts against the independence of Balkan state would be met with force.

Russia has a territorial claim against Rumania, the province of Bessarabia, which Rumania acquired in post World war settlement.

MESSAGE: Roosevelt Hopes For Happier Days for Finns

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today told President Kyosti Kallio of Finland that he hopes "these tragic days may not be long in giving way to a happier era."

Mr. Roosevelt's message was sent on occasion of the Baltic republic's 22nd anniversary of its independence from Russia whose armies now are attempting to invade Finland.

While it is customary for the chief executive of one government to send felicitations to the head of another state on occasions of this nature, those familiar with the procedure said that the tone of Mr. Roosevelt's message was unusual.

The president offered this gesture of moral support after announcing at a press conference yesterday that he would hold the Finnish debt payment, due Dec. 15, in a special fund and ask congress for authority to use it to aid the Finnish people. At that time he stoutly defended his foreign policy.

"This anniversary on which the Finnish people recall with pride the achievement of their independence gives me yet another welcome occasion to voice the wholehearted esteem felt for them and for their government by the people and government of the United States," the president's message said.

"It is my earnest hope that these tragic days may not be long in giving way to a happier era to permit the Finnish people to continue untroubled steady development of their free political and social institutions which have aroused the admiration of the American people."

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

THEY WERE a small group in the settlement house dining room where a piano had been placed for rehearsal of the carols.

Fabienne consulted a card in her hand and looked up at the children with an encouraged smile. "The four tallest girls and the four tallest boys will stand over here to the right," she said, leading them to their positions. "The boys in back of the girls. Then Luigi, you and Ingaborg. Lee and Colleen will stand in the front row. That's right!"

Twelve foreign faces beamed at her.

"Now you look just like the picture that I showed you in the Christmas Carol book!" And indeed they would, with the simple costumes Miss Winters was making out of donations for them—long bright woolen scarfs to wrap around their throats and long coats. Put a lantern in little Luigi's hand and the picture would come to life.

"Teacher," Colleen Flaherty asked shyly, "What's the lantern for?"

"Oh, didn't I tell you about that? Well, you see the first little boys and girls who went out on Christmas Eve to spread good cheer with their carols did not have bright street lights, so they had to have a lantern to show the way from house to house over the soft snow."

"Were they cold standing in the snow?" The wistful voice of Lars, the tallest of the boys wanted to know. Fabienne's heart smote her. She knew what cold meant to this fatherless boy who lived in a miserable, unheated tenement. She said gently, "No Lars, they weren't cold any more than we're going to be cold. Their hearts were light and happy because they were singing Christmas hymns of joy to make others happy. The way we're going to be."

But were they? These poor little mites. There'd be toys and candy and fruit for them at the settlement house, but where was that Christmas joy she was painting in their eager imaginations? Cold tenements. Wretchedness and poverety and dirt and sickness was their lot.

For her there would be the holiday of fables. The yule log and groaning board. The big tree in the library of Willoughby hall. The excitement of voices calling cheery greetings, the gaily colored ribbons and the mass of greens. The Christmas punch and the candlelit table. The beautiful gowns and the Christmas ball.

She cleared her throat. "I can't tell you any more stories now. Dr. Mallory will be down in a minute and we want to be in our places all ready to sing when he comes in. Let's surprise him."

She took her place at the piano and struck cord for pitch. Twelve childish voices opened the song. Bill had come in.

Bill dismissed the children and drew a chair up beside hers where she sat at the piano.

He said "You're a softie."

"Smile when you say that," she said with simulated belligerency. "What gave you that idea?"

"Your face," he said, moving his eyes over it with serious eyes. "I thought it was immobile when first I saw you."

"It's the same face," she told him, wishing she could escape. If he looked at her often that way, he'd read something of her admiration—yes, that was the way she put it to herself—in her eyes.

"No." He shook his head. "It's not the same face, or the same girl, at all. I was watching you from the gallery." They were rehearsing in the little theater. "And I saw your thoughts written all over your face when the Anderson boy asked you if they'd be cold standing in the snow."

"Well," she said staunchly, "aren't you sorry for these children? Who wouldn't be?"

"Sure I'm sorry for them. But not about Christmas. I'm sorry for the people who think of Christmas in terms of comfort and expensive presents and big dances."

As if he had surprised her thoughts, Fabienne looked at him guiltily. "What's wrong with that?" she asked.

"There's nothing wrong with it, except that it isn't the real thing about Christmas. It's like looking at a rhinestone and being satisfied with it when there's a star to be touched."

"You think these children touch stars?"

"Yes," he said simply.

"How?" She had to ask it.

"They get something you can't wrap up in tissue paper. Something the best of shops can't sell you because there is no price on it."

"An orange, a bag of candy," she said, "and a Christmas tree in a settlement house."

"Fabienne, Fabienne, what a stupid little girl you are!" It was the first time he had called her by her name. "Do you think they get excited about an orange? Most of them snitch them every day. Or a Christmas tree? Yes, they do. But it's because it's a symbol of the whole spirit of the holiday that lifts them out of their lives. Now, I'm going to sound like a preacher."

"Go on," she said.

"It's a lift that doesn't disappear. With a lot of them it will. Because many of them are destined to finish their lives in poverty and ignorance. But some of them will always know what Christmas stands for. Do you know what it stands for, Fabienne?"

She shook her head.

"For hope, child. It's the birthday of Jesus Christ. No man can ever think of Him without thinking of hope. The little stable in Bethlehem. The star that guided the wise men. Everyone of these kids knows about that. It's something that belongs to everyone of them. Something that they sense as a greater gift than the orange or the bag of candy. That's why the Christmas spirit is something complete and beautiful. Can you be sorry for them when they have that? Or can you be sorry for the people who haven't?"

"For both," she said in a still voice. "But these children—"

"When they're men and women, they'll remember what they felt when they were children. The stable in Bethlehem and what it stands for, the feeling that thrills these young hearts when they sing the carols will always be there."

She held out her hand to him and said, "Thanks for telling me, Bill. Telling me something I should have known. Only, you see I'm not religious."

"You're a lot of things you don't even know about," he said cryptically. "Including a darn good disciplinarian. You've done a mighty good job on this project. Going to be around Christmas to hear the fruits of your labor?"

"I'm taking the nine o'clock train to Maryland. I'll hear the carols and rush to the station. I'll be in by two. And two o'clock is practically the shank of the evening in my part of the world. You staying in New York?"

"Yeah. A doctor can't run away for holidays. But don't you worry about me. Ellen's taking pity on me. Wish you were going to be here, too."

Hmmmm. She didn't! Not to see Bill and Ellen laughing over the same things, sharing the same experiences. She had never seen them together except at the settlement house, and she didn't want to.

Give her Maryland and the gaiety and music and Nicky and all the people she could share experiences with.

But she was not to spend that Christmas at Willoughby hall.

The telegram came at six o'clock, when she was winding a bright red scarf around Patsy O'Brien's neck.

She read it, swallowed the forlornness that swept over her and thrust it into her skirt pocket. No need to tell anybody that she wasn't going to Maryland because Aunt Edna's sister had died and Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna were already on their way to St. Louis.

Fabienne Seymour didn't want anybody to be sorry for her because she had no place to go on Christmas.

Can You Spare a Stamp? That's New In Rackets Here

The new routine for beggars is simple. The mendicant arms himself with a grimy letter, addressed to some far city—but minus a stamp.

He takes his position in front of a postoffice and when he sees a "customer" headed for the postoffice he approaches with a story about being a stranger in town—and can the "gentleman spare a 3-cent stamp?"

The psychology of the panhandling stunt reaps dividends, since most passersby don't have a pocketful of pennies. The average "touch" is said to range from a nickel to a dollar.

Because moths fly at night and are usually not seen, few people realize that there are nine times as many moth species as butterflies.

Columbus South Quintet Invades Tyger Lair Friday

COACH VERN HUFFMAN will have an opportunity to see how his 1939-40 Mansfield high school cage machine functions against school-boy opponents when Columbus South invades Mansfield Friday night.

Although impressed with the performance of the varsity in defeating the Alumni last week, Huffman was still busy today shifting his lineup in an effort to add scoring power to the fast-breaking attack.

* * *

Huffman, former Bellevue high basketball coach, will be making his debut in that capacity before Tyger fans.

Huffman

Columbus South, which opened its season against Lancaster St. Mary's last week travels to the Tyger lair with a veteran lineup.

South dropped a thrilling 35-33 decision to St. Mary's when Abbott, star center, scored a last-second basket from midcourt. Huffman, however, believes the Capital city five will give the Tygers all they want to handle in one evening.

The Tyger Mentor expected to start the same lineup that opened against the Alumni, but a couple of sophomore forwards have been receiving considerable attention from him in practice sessions.

Jack Shipley and Harry Phillips are the lads, and both may see service Friday night.

According to present plans Huffman will start Russ Beer at the pivot post, Don Rose and Bill Herpich at the guards, while Gene Rudolph and Gene Miller, the latter a newcomer, are scheduled to see action at the forwards.

Floyd Taylor is South's principal threat, and Huffman has been centering his attention on defensive work and ball handling in drills.

Sports Chatter

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—The guessing around here is that the Dodgers will pay Leo Durocher 25 G's, plus a bonus . . . Ward Cuff, the Giant backfielder, will get his first peek at his new baby girl when the team goes to Milwaukee to play Green Bay Sunday. The Giants head west tomorrow. . . .

PIGSKIN PREVIEW: The Buffalo Evening News reports Coach Carl Snavely has a date with the Cornell club there to discuss 1940 prospects . . . Now—that ought to make mighty fine listening . . . But if Prof. Snavely is no more voluble than usual, we predict no ears will be bent.

Cincinnati Chatter: Here's how the Reds signed Paul Derringer; Boss Warren C. Giles autographed a blank contract, then handed it to Derringer. Paul signed—after inserting his own figures . . . Boston offered Joe Vosmik to Detroit for Rudy York, but it was no soap . . . Rosey Ryan, old Giant pitcher, is demonstrating a new catching machine which also teaches a pitcher control and drills him in fielding by firing the ball back to him fast and along the ground.

Any deal the Giants make may include Jo Jo Moore, one of the holdovers from the McGraw days . . . Harlond Clift denies those stories he will join the WPA before playing another season with the Browns. Denial rings true since the Browns gave him a fat raise.

* * *

THEY MAY BE TUFF: Marquette may have a cussed good football team next year, at that . . . Dams and Hellman have just been awarded freshman numerals.

New Haven Rips Rivals, 37-24

NEW HAVEN — The basketeers of New Haven high walloped New Washington high, 37 to 24, here last night.

With Kipp pacing the attack, the New Haven club staged a thrilling last-half rally to score the victory. Kipp tallied 13 points.

New Haven was trailing, 14 to 7, at the intermission, but slipped in 14 points while holding the loafers to a free throw in the third to take the lead.

New Washington was leading by a 9 to 5 count in the first frame, and then New Haven forged ahead 21 to 15, going into the final period. Michelfelder was high for the losers with 13 markers.

Texas A. and M. Faces Tulane in Bowl Game

Undefeated Aggies and Green Wave Matched For Sugar Bowl Contest at New Orleans.

(By Associated Press)

IT'S TULANE against the Texas Aggies in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans New Year's day, and the backers of rival bowl games probably are wondering how they can match that attraction.

Those two teams, a pair of the nation's most powerful, were matched last night after a day filled with wavering and indecision. Now most of the other teams that were so anxious to do a little post-season playing are trying to make up their minds where they will go.

The Rose Bowl rivals, of course, won't be picked until after Saturday, when the Southern California-U. C. L. A. game will decide the Pacific Coast championship. To hasten things along, the conference president has arranged a telegraphic vote Saturday night to name the West's representative. U. S. C. is expected to get the call, and the most likely eastern team is believed to be Tennessee, provided the Vols get past Auburn Saturday.

Georgia Tech already has accepted a bid to the Miami Orange Bowl. The Cotton Bowl had to start all over again when Tennessee and Texas A. and M. turned down its offer of $170,000 to be split between the teams. The Aggies were inclined to favor acceptance, but changed their minds when Tennessee refused to make a decision this week.

Missouri is believed the No. 1 "Northern" choice for the Orange Bowl, but after a meeting last night officials had not come to a decision. Duquesne and Georgetown, both unbeaten, also are on the list, along with Boston college and Fordham. Catholic university seems to hold the inside track for the Sun Bowl, although unbeaten Scranton is a possibility.

Indians Seek Outfielder

Tribe May Get Hoag or Walker in Trade.

The tribal chieftians have been talking with officials of the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns. If anything materializes from these conences the resultant swap probably would bring to Cleveland Myril Hoag of the Browns or Gerry Walker of the Sox. Both are right-handed hitting gardeners.

Catchers Rollie Hemsley and Frankie Pytlak continued to be the Indians' chief bait. Indications were that Pytlak would go if a deal went through.

Other Clevaland players mentioned in trade talks were Outfielder Bruce Campbell and Pitcher Willis Hudlin.

Henry B. (Buzz) Wetsel, chief of the Indians farm system, announced he had purchased a half interest in the Charleston (W. Va.) club of the Class C Middle Atlantic league and would dispose of his Springfield (O.) holdings.

Wetzel has operated the Springfield club of the same league for several years as an Indian farm and will carry that affiliation to the West Virginia city. Manager Ed Hall will remain at the helm under Wetzel's ownership.

Reynolds Tackles Jones In Thursday's Mat Card

DAVEY REYNOLDS, the little fellow with the big mat reputation, will make his first start here since last winter when he opposes Buzz Jones of Portland, Ore., in the opener of Thursday's mat card in the Armory. Reynolds and Jones have signed for a one-fall bout, with a 30-minute time limit.

Reynolds has dropped but one verdict in all of his local appearances and that to the light-heavyweight champion of the world at the time. He's ready for another title campaign now and hopes to get off on the right foot against Jones, who figures to give him a hard half-hour of it.

A cousin of the world-renowned Jack Reynolds, Davey is about the smoothest young light-heavyweight in the business. He has absorbed a lot of Jack's best tricks and it is doubtful if there is a wrestler in the country who is better grounded in the fundamentals of the sport. Davey takes his wrestling seriously and has the ambition to one day wear the belt now owned by Frankie Talaber of Chicago.

Feature of Thursday's attraction will be the two-fall, 90-minute time limit bout between Gil Knutsen of Toronto, Canada, and Indian Ike Cazzell of Laredo, Texas. The semi-final, carded for two falls and a 45-minute time limit, sends Princess Rose White Cloud against Gladys Gillem, "blond tigress of the south."

Tickets for the card are selling at City News, Hunt's News depot and Ringside Cafe.

'Leave Grid Rule Book Alone'---Coach Neely

By BILL WHITE

NEW YORK—(AP)—In five terse words, Clemson Coach Jess Neely struck the key-note of football coaches' attitude toward football rules this year:

"Leave the rule book alone," he said.

His sentiments were echoed by most of the other coaches participating in the Associated Press survey, although there was a "minority opinion" against the new type of football cleat introduced this year.

There were some old familiar cries. The plea that the goal-posts be moved back to the goal-line was renewed with some vigor, and there was a hope expressed that forward passing from anywhere behind the line be permitted. Adherents of the latter say now their high school stars, who are permitted by scholastic rules to throw 'em without restriction, have to be "untaught" when they get to college.

The campaign that may really bear fruit—the one against the so-called "truncated cone" cleat—is headed by three able students of the game—Coaches Tom Stidham of Oklahoma, Charley Bachman of Michigan State and Bill Alexander of Georgia.

Stidham thinks the cleat is "no good for a muddy or a hard, dry field; there's too much falling down." Alexander says the half-inch base of the cone is too large for proper traction. And Bachman thinks an epidemic of twisted knees can be traced directly to the cleat, which grips too hard for a quick pivot—and thereby leads to trouble.

Otherwise in the rule suggestions, there was noted some slight movement to restrict the defense to six men on the line of scrimmage. But Adam Walsh of Bowdoin counteracts this by suggesting that the attacking team have only six men on the line—thus aiding the offense by giving it an extra back and one more possible pass receiver. Walsh also likes the idea of making the center an eligible pass receiver.

Fordham Rams Reach High

Madison Bows To Ashland

Rams Drop 42-24 Decision in Non-League Tilt.

THE Rams of Madison high are back on their home court today preparing to return to competition in the Richland county basketball league Friday night.

Coach Al Fendrick's five will attempt to hop back in the win column at Madison Friday night by entertaining Ontario high Warriors in one of the three county league tussles.

While Madison and Ontario are staging one of their hectic battles, Butler invades Lexington and Union travels to Lucas in other county loop contests. Bellville will seek its third win by invading Fredericktown in a non-league setto.

Ashland jumped into the lead in the opening minutes of the game last night and piled up an overwhelming advantage before half-time. The Ashland five tallied 14 points in the first quarter and came back with a like number of markers to hold a 28 to 5 lead. Ashland led, 14-2 in the opening quarter.

Ashland's reserves took over the situation in the last half and Madison fought them on even terms. As the clubs went into the final period, Ashland was leading, 36 to 11.

Hammer of Madison was the offensive star of the game, collecting 13 points to win individual honors. Barr, Ashland forward, pumped in 15 points to top his teammates.

Hornsby and Simmons Hunting Connections

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Pick ups while peeking from behind pillars a the minor league meeting:

The three top men of baseball—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner; Judge W. G. Bramham, president of all the minors, and George M. Trautman, chairman of the National Association's executive board, have played just two games of organized baseball. Trautman played both—in a Class D league—while the big and little czars never swung a bat in competition.

Those three, however, are drawing total salaries of around $100,000 per year from baseball, Bramham and Trautman getting handsome raises this year. And they're worth more, their club presidents will tell you.

At the same time two of baseball's brightest stars — Roger Hornsby and Al Simmons—are haunting hotel lobbies looking for a 1940 connection.

Judge Bramham, in addition to the $5,000-per-year raise granted him yesterday, picked up an additional $1.50 at the annual banquet last night. Trautman, toastmaster of the biggest event of its kind in baseball's history, declared the "judge" had enjoyed his roast turkey so much that he (Trautman) would like to pay for the meal. The judge had paid his $1.50 earlier, so Trautman shelled out the cash and placed it before the chief of the minors.

Yeh; Judge Bramham pocketed it.

Joe McCarthy of the Yanks stood around the lobby, talking with the boys, but admitting he was "just keeping an eye on things and wasn't especially interested in any trades or deals."

"Things look pretty good for us in 1940," McCarthy said, "but I'll promise you we won't beat the Reds four in a row in the series if they come up again."

But Joe had his tongue in his cheek when he said it.

Clark Griffith, looking fit, said he had a "pretty good nucleus at Washington" and that he expected a pennant to float over the nation's capital in a couple of years.

"We won't be quite ready in 1940," Griffith said, "but look out for us after that."

* * *

They didn't have Connie Mack at the speakers' table at the banquet last night, but the grand old man of baseball got the biggest hand in the house when he was introduced. The applause was so loud and long that it stopped the show for two full minutes.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By HENRY McLEMORE

BRUNSWICK, Ga.—(U.P.)—This is the time of year when everybody picks All-America football players and forgets all about the coaches who helped make them that. As a man who loves justice almost as much as he does corn on the cob and a two-hour week, I aim to do my bit toward remedying this situation by picking the coach who did the outstanding job of the 1939 season.

My choice is—and heaven help me if I ever fall into the clutches of the friends of such coaches as Eddie Anderson of Iowa, Homer Norton of Texas A. and M., Carl Snavely of Cornell and Don Faurot of Missouri—my choice is William Alexander of Georgia Tech.

Yep, ol' Alex, who has been around Georgia Tech longer than the blue-prints of the first builder; ol' Alex, who has lost his hair but never his temper or his humor or his imagination in the 20 or more years he has coached the teams that once were called the Golden Tornado, then the Ramblin' Wrecks, and, finally, the Yellow Jackets.

It was no easy task to settle on one man as coach of the year because the season was studded with brilliant jobs, not only by the men mentioned before, but by a score of others. But something Elmer Layden said last Saturday, as we sat around after the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia, helped me make up what only my best friends call my mind.

"You know, I've got a ballot here from a newspaper asking me to write down my idea of the coach who did the best job," the thin man of Notre Dame said, "and I'm going to put Alex of Tech. I don't believe anybody could have accomplished any more with the material he had than Alex. And I know that no team in the country right now has an offense quite as bewildering as his."

My selection of Alexander was influenced by many things. Tech is a comparatively small school to start with, and being an engineering one its requirements are rigid. It doesn't have any physical education department, which is always pretty handy to have around to take care of athletes with strong backs and weak minds, and neither does it have a school of commerce, another great help.

With a small squad, a light squad, and a squad without too much natural talent, Alexander had to find a way to make it formidable. So he substituted brains for brawn.

The entire structure of the attack depended upon the ability of the backs to fake. Not content with merely having his backs fake with their bodies, he put them through what amounted to a course in dramatics, so that the expressions on their faces, the gestures of their hands, would add to the trickery.

The practice sessions resembled a rehearsal of a stock company, and at least one member of the team, Howard Ector, became so skilled a thespian that he was in danger of being lured away by the New York stage. Toward the end of the season—a season, by the way, which saw the Tech team share the tough Southeastern league championship—Ector could give you a stirring portrayal of Hamlet or Uncle Tom or Rip Van Winkle while throwing a pass or handling the ball on a spinner or faking a slant off tackle. And he was only a little better actor than the other players.

So Alexander gets my vote. From what I promise you was one of the most inept squads of players in the country, Alex developed an offense so brilliant, and a defense so mobile, that it is going to the Orange Bowl.

WAR'S BOTHER

Lutheran World Convention Set For U. S. May Be Postponed.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Europe's war may cause postponement or transfer to some other country of the Lutheran World convention, scheduled for Philadelphia next May, according to an announcement by Dr. Ralph H. Long, Chicago, head of the American convention committee.

The Rev. Paul C. Emple, chairman of the Philadelphia committee, said that local plans for the conclave were being suspended. Some 250 official delegates from 28 foreign countries were expected.

HEADACHE GETS AID

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(U.P.)—City Councilman Harry Hite plans to introduce an ordinance to remove a postman's headache. Hite's proposed ordinance would eliminate 124 duplicated street names in Tennessee's capital city and also would prevent one street from having several different names along its course.

Minors Slam Doors on Big Leaguers at Final Meeting

By GAYLE TALBOT

CINCINNATI—The minor leaguers, asserting their independence, will slam the door right in the face of the big leaguers at the final meeting of the little fellows today.

This is the most important development of the baseball convention up to now, mainly for the reason that there have been no trades or deals of any sort worth mentioning. They still are dodging and weaving.

The presidents of two of the top minor leagues, George W. Trautman of the American association and Frank Shaughnessy of the International intended to make certain today that the big leagues never would be able to invade their territory.

The baseball rule now reads that any big league club that wishes can move in upon any class AA city with the payment of only $5,000 and an additional sum to "compensate" the injured team. Today's amendment will change all that and hog tie the big leagues for good.

Trautman and Shaughnessy spent long hours yesterday and last night preparing an edict saying it would cost a big league team at least $100,000 to grab off a promising looking minor league town, and maybe more.

It was a little astonishing to learn that such a situation had existed. It was whispered, but without verification, that the Cardinals came closer than was generally realized to changing their home town a couple of times in recent years. Shaughnessy and Trautman must have credited this threat to their empires.

* * *

As for the player trades that are expected to come out of a session like this, they still only are brewing. Possibly there will be a couple of good ones before the boys go home Saturday, but there has been nothing even "hot" in the first three days.

Star Idaho Athlete Rides Bench Because He's an Orphan

LEWISTON, Ida.—(AP)—He's a very handy lad to have around a football team, because he passes, runs and kicks with more than ordinary ability, and triple-threat halfbacks never have been a dime a dozen.

But Delmer Owens is not playing football at Lewiston high school because he's an orphan.

The husky Owens lad is a baseball star, too—he pitched 25 consecutive innings of shutout ball and allowed just one run in four straight games.

But he had to sit on the bench when the Lewiston American Legion Juniors played in the state tournament—because he was an orphan.

Delmer lost his football eligibility when he left the North Idaho Children's Home to try to make his own living. He got a job on a farm and got up at 2 o'clock every morning to milk cows before he trudged off to school at Asotin, Wash.

When he returned to Lewiston he learned about Article 12, Section 5 (g) of the Idaho High School Athletic association constitution. It said an orphan who transferred from one school to another must reside within the new district for one semester before being eligible for athletics.

Delmer was ruled ineligible for the baseball tournament because, as an orphan, he could not establish his age.

He's not kicking, understand, but Delmer does wonder "how long I'll be kept on the bench."

Soloists With White Hussars

CORNELIA BONA

Two of the featured soloists with Herbert Petrie's White Hussars who will present two concerts tomorrow in the Senior high school audiortium are Cornelia Bona and Petrie himself. Petrie, organizer and director of the ensemble, is solo cornetist and will be featured in several numbers. Miss Bona is a noted harpist.t Appearing with the group as vocalist will be Henry Thompson, dramatic tenor, who has sung with the Chicago Civic and Pacific Opera companies. A concert for school children will be given at 2:30 p. m. while a second performance is scheduled for 8:15 p. m. Proceeds will go to a fund being raised to purchase new uniforms for the high school band.

HERBERT PETRIE

ONE WAS PENNY

BOSTON—(U.P.)—One man handled all the trans-Atlantic mail of Massachusetts 300 years ago, old records discovered by Postmaster Peter F. Tague reveal. The state legislature authorized Richard J. Fairbanks "to receive and dispatch all trans-Atlantic matter" at a penny per letter.

SWISS NO NAZIS

Inclusion in Germans' Atlas Makes Them Angry.

BERNE —(AP)— German atlas publishers printing maps under the Nazi regime have infuriated the Swiss in the past and now they've done it again.

The Nazi program calls for assembling or drawing all Germanic peoples into the Reich or at least into National Socialism, and they just can't get it out of their heads that the Swiss Germans aren't interested.

The "Knaup" atlas, printed in Berlin, carries a map in its new edition headed "Germans living outside the frontiers of the Reich"—and the map includes German Switzerland in that group.

To drive the point home the atlas states that "there are three million Germans living in Switzerland."

The Swiss objected, in their newspapers and by word of mouth, to being called Germans. "Let them come here, those Nazi mapmakers, let them come and listen to what we think and they'll learn we're Swiss, not German," said the Zurich Volksrecht, a German language newspaper.

Czechs, Slovaks In U. S. Prepare For New Nation

CHICAGO— (INS) —A concerted effort is being made to patch up all differences between Slovaks and Czechs in America to bring about the reestablishment of the Czechoslovak republic, which was gobbled up by Germany.

Plans for such a drive were launched at the recent convention in Chicago of the Slovak National Alliance, whose leaders discussed the situation with the Czechoslovak National Council of America.

The convention took a militant stand for repeal of the arms embargo and the adoption of the cash-and-carry plan for all nations.

THEATERS

THAT "first kiss" between Deanna Durbin and Robert Stack in "First Love" started something. Now 16-year-old Bonita Granville is to get her first screen kiss in "At Good Old Siwash" and from William "Golden Boy" Holden. Edith Fellows will follow suit in her forthcoming Columbia film and Jane Withers is demanding why can't she have a screen romance? But Jane's mother is opposed to the idea, at least for a couple of years. Only Shirley Temple and Baby Sandy aren't bothering about romance.

Double Murder Solved.

An intriguing plot revolving around a man who is freed by a jury of a murder charge and a few hours later is found in an office in which a man has been killed is found in "Who Killed Stella Trent?," a Madison feature. Kent Taylor is seen as a radio commentator and Linda Hayes as a newspaper woman. "What a Life" with Jackie Cooper and Betty Field is the film version of the Jackie Coogan stage play. It is based on the popular radio serial The Aldrich Family.

"Dancing Co-Ed."

Lana Turner, Richard Carlson and Artie Shaw make up a trio that has beauty, romance, and music in "Dancing Co-Ed," opening at the Ohio today for a two day showing. This is Shaw's screen debut and he brings his famous swing band with him. The story tells of a little vaudeville hoofer who is sent to college for the sole purpose of winning a national college dancing contest. The supporting cast includes Roscoe Karns, Lee Bowman, Leon Errol and June Preisser, who was the "baby star" in "Babes In Arms."

Dog Star At Park.

The efforts of a young, intelligent police officer to introduce a dog into crime detection methods meets with wrath on the part of superior officers and scorn from the newspapers, but with Ace, famous movie dog, in the picture, there are bound to be favorable results. Young Tim Holt has the title role in "Rookie Cop," which is being shown at the Park through Thursday. "You Only Live Once" provides a dramatic story for Henry Fonda and Sylvia Sidney.

Glittering Era.

A trio of stars, all of whom are dynamite at the box office, is found in "San Francisco," at the Ritz today and tomorrow. They are Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Jeanette MacDonald. The metropolis of the Pacific coast in its glittering era before the earthquake of 1906 is the setting for an unusual love story which reaches its climax in the fire and devastation which followed the quake. On the same bill at the Ritz is a new Torchy episode with Jane Wyman taking over the Glenda Farrell role.

Youth's Problems.

A boy who lives in the crowded districts of New York and who dreams of wide open spaces, and a girl who has fled from the war zone and make their way to the West in hopes of fulfilling their dreams. "Heaven With a Barbed Wire Fence" is a modern problem drama of restless youth. The film is at the Majestic where the top feature is "Juarez" with Bette Davis and Paul Muni in a dramatic and tragic story of the Emperor Maximilian, his empress and Juarez.

CALF WINS PRIZE

Mansfield Entry Gets Award at Livestock Show.

The calf was among 10 entries of the Maxwalton farms at the livestock show. Animals from the farm have taken a number of awards at the exposition in recent years.

Carl H. Stander, Mansfield, who is exhibiting a young Shorthorn cow in the show, is the only other Richland county livestock producer who has an entry at the exposition.

Ohio livestock producers won a number of prizes at the show. Heading the list was C. B. Teegardin and Sons of Ashville whose Shorthorn cattle took six firsts and two third prizes.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

The State of Ohio, Richland County. Common Pleas Court.

Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., Plaintiff, vs. Mary Alice Cartnal, et al, Defendant. Case No. 24938.

In pursuance of an Order of Sale issued in the above entitled action, I will offer for sale at Public Auction, at the door of the Court House in Mansfield, in the above named County, on Saturday, the 16th day of December, 1939, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., the following described real estate, situate in the County of Richland, and State of Ohio, and in the Township of Madison, to-wit:

Being lot number Four Hundred Forty-nine (449) in South Boulevards Adjoutment as shown at Volume 13, Page 5, of the Plats and being Sixty (60) feet on the Southerly side of Sunset Boulevards and extending back of equal width Two Hundred (200) feet as appears from said Plat.

Said Premises Located being the 5th lot east of Lexington Ave. and on the south side of Sunset Boulevard in South Boulevard Allotment, Madison Township, County and State aforesaid.

Said Premises Appraised at $4,300.00. TERMS OF SALE: CASH.

E. P. LONG, Sheriff of Richland County, Ohio. By FRANK E. ROBINSON, Deputy.

Owen P. Stacey, Attorney. (Nov. 15, 22, 29, Dec. 6, 13, NJ '39)

LEGAL NOTICE

Lenore Boyd, last his wife, ——— Boyd, whose first name is unknown; Velma Moore and her husband ——— Moore, whose first name is unknown; Emma Boyd and the unknown heirs of Edward L. Boyd, whose places of residence are unknown and cannot be ascertained, will take notice that on the 18th day of October, 1939, the plaintiff, James V. Will, Guardian of Edward L. Boyd, as incompetent person, filed his petition against them in the Probate Court of Richland County, Ohio, same being Cause No. 7765 in said court, for the sale of certain real estate in said petition described, to-wit:

Being twenty-four (24) acres of land more or less, located in the south-east corner of the north-east quarter of Section 1, Township 21 Range 18 in Butler Township, Richland County, Ohio, and being all the land now standing in the name of Edward L. Boyd in said section.

The prayer of said petition is for the sale of said real estate to pay debts, save waste and make new investments of any proceeds remaining after payment of debts, liens and incumbrances, and for such other and further equitable relief. Said defendants are required to answer said petition on or before the 9th day of January, 1940, or judgment will be taken against them.

James V. Will, Guardian of Edward L. Boyd, an Incompetent person.
By Theodore L. Lutz, his Attorney.

(Nov. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, Dec. 6, NJ '39)

STEEL SHARES SPONSOR MILD GAINS IN MART

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Prominent Among Leaders in Slow Trading Session.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Steel shares sponsored a mild uptern in the stock market today.

Business was light from the slow opening on. Near the second hour leaders had added fractions to a point or more.

Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Du Pont, Montgomery Ward, Timken-Detroit Axle Chrysler and Caterpillar.

The improvement in sentiment was apparently aided by declaration of extra and increased dividends and favorable earnings reports which appeared overnight. Brokers said there was some appearance of tax adjustment selling, but that it consisted mainly of switching and therefore did not bear down too hard on the market.

Foreign markets were quiet and steady. Bonds pointed upward and commodities were mixed.

In line with Wall Street expectations was the "Iron Age" report that although a downward trend in new steel orders was definitely discernible, the aggregate of companies had not been reduced materially.

Followers of the utilities were cheered by a more than seasonal rise in power production for the week ended Dec. 2, almost duplicating the record set in the final week in October.

Heaviest percentage gains over last year were in the central industrial and southern areas.

Of mixed effect was the fact crude oil production in the United States last week dropped an average of 528,900 barrels daily while gasoline stocks increased by 779,000 barrels.

'STARVATION' IN OHIO REPORTED

Desperate Situation Revealed in Survey as Officials Trade Charges.

thorugh October averaged 32 per cent.

Burton's statement was in answer to Gov. Bricker's declaration that the state had done all in its power to relieve the situation.

Mayor Burton also asked the state to make available to cities additional sources of tax revenue and reenact permission to school boards to give partial relief to indigent children.

Further commenting on Mayor La Guardia's remarks, Gov. Bricker said.

"Ohio's record in social betterment compares with any state in the union, including New York. Nobody is starving in the state of Ohio, and nobody will starve in the state of Ohio. I have already pointed out to city officials ways and means for continuing necessary relief programs."

In Washington some house members said congress might consider providing for unemployables in light of Ohio's plight. At least 12,000 persons here are "surviving" on food from the federal surplus commodities corporation.

The rest of Cleveland's relief dependents, almost 50,000, are getting sharply curtailed aid or nothing at all.

Says Reliefers Scavenge for Food.

TOLEDO—(AP)—Refusal of city relief to Toledo's employable persons has forced many to scavenge for their food, the Toledo Council of Social Agencies declared today.

The council sent 50 investigators, representing 19 private social agencies, to interview 10 per cent of 3,253 cases who potentially were eligible for direct relief Nov. 4, had the city not removed them from its poor aid rolls Sept. 15.

"There were many cases in actual want and acute need—where persons were starving," the council declared in a report over the signature of its executive secretary, Norman B. Finch.

"Investigators reported that many of the potential relief clients were living under unbelievable conditions. Many people were picking up scraps—scavenging."

ILL 4 WEEKS, DIES

Miss Katherine Pfister Came to Mansfield 34 Years Ago.

Miss Katherine Pfister, 75, of 10 Distl avenue, died Tuesday at her home following a four-week illness. She was born in Jugoslavia Jan. 8, 1864, and came to Mansfield 34 years ago.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Steve Distl of Mansfield, and a brother, Frank Pfister of Jugoslavia.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Christian Apostolic church, First and Mulberry streets. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will remain at the Wappner funeral home until time of services.

The most famous empress of Russia, Catherine the Great, was neither Russian nor named Catherine. She was born in Stettin, Germany, and was christened Sophia.

DEATH CLAIMS NATIVE OF CITY

Fred Laubscher, 55, Had Lived In City All His Life.

Fred Laubscher, 55, of Fifth avenue extension, died early Wednesday at General hospital following a brief illness. He was born in Mansfield, March 1, 1884, and spent his life here.

Mr. Laubscher, who had been employed at the Ideal Electric company for the past 25 years, was a member of St. John's Evangelical church.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Marie Laubscher; three brothers, August, Carl and Albert of Mansfield, and five sisters, Mrs. Bert Mowers of Lucas, Miss Katherine Laubscher, Mrs. John H. Meeting, Mrs. Harry L. Marmet and Mrs. Adam Poth of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 3:30 p. m. Friday with Rev. Paul Saleste officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will remain at the home until Friday morning.

MEANS BUSINESS

Non-Support to Mean Culprit'll Wear Real Ball and Chain.

WELLSBURG, W. Va.—(UP)—A ball and chain were available today to be shackled to the first man sentenced to do street work for failing to support his wife and family.

Sheriff Herbert Traubert obtained the implement of punishment at the order yesterday of Circuit Judge J. J. O'Brien, who said he wanted to give a "few non-supporters a taste of street work shackled" as he had threatened recently to do.

DOGS STRIKE

Canines in Pound Given Better Food, They Balk at Meals.

Police Chief Michael F. Morrissey told the safety board the dogs were refusing to eat.

"The situation is serious," he said.

The board ordered him to use a different kind of dog food, saying: "Even a dog would tire of eating the same thing every meal.

Hears Russia Hopes to Make Mexico 'Puppet State'

DIES WEIGHS PLAN TO HOLD U. S. HEARINGS

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A series of hearings to explore charges that Soviet Russia seeks to make Mexico a puppet state and a base for spread of Communism in the western hemisphere, may be conducted by the Dies committee, it was disclosed today.

Leon Trotsky, one of the founders of Soviet Russia and now an exile in Mexico, has asked to appear before the committee and may be brought to the United States for this purpose.

These developments followed receipt of reports from committee investigators upon Chairman Martin Dies' arrival at his home in Orange, Tex., where he was ordered by his physician to take a month's rest.

The reports, however, were described by committee sources as "so important," that Dies probably will abandon plans for a rest and start an investigation.

Trotsky, it was reported, is anxious to bare many secret documents dealing with his fight with Russian Dictator Josef Stalin and work of the Communist internationale in the United States.

A committee investigator spent more than a week with Trotsky in Mexico, during which the former world Communist leader was said to have offered his cooperation in a battle against "Stalinism."

Dies 'Impressed.'

Dies was described as being deeply impressed by information from other sources to the effect that the Communist internationale has established a base in Mexico for operation in the United States, Latin and South America.

Dies was to have received information "from a very high authority" that Soviet Russia seeks to take over Mexico as much as it hopes to take over Finland—except that the penetration is to be accomplished by propaganda, subsidizing of Mexican politicians and other political methods.

Reports were also received by Dies that Mexican organization leaders contacted persons of political influence in the United States before the Mexican government expropriated American oil property in an effort to forestall retaliation.

STEEL ACTIVITY SEEN CONTINUING

Iron Age Says Producers 'Sold' Thru March of Next Year.

NEW YORK — (AP) — "Iron Age" magazine reported today that most major producers of steel were "well sold" through the first three months of next year, despite a drop in orders.

"Accompanying the downward trend of new orders," said the magazine, "is a drop of one point in the industry's rate to 93½ per cent for this week, but there is no connection between the two, the decline in operations, which has occurred in only a few districts, being mainly accounted for by equipment repairs rather than decrease in tonnage available for rolling.

"Nearby prospects are enhanced by the return to production of the Chrysler automobile plants. Railroad demand for steel is insistent.

COLD SHOULDER

Iowa Voters Can't See Bonds For Swimming Pool In December.

SHENANDOAH, Ia.—(AP)—The issue before the voters was a $13,000 bond issue for a swimming pool, but it was December and it was cold.

So only 462 turned out, less than one-fourth of the registration, and they gave the project the cold shoulder by 29 votes.

WELL EQUIPPED

Man With Crowbar, File Trapped; Police Help, Hold Him.

DENVER — (AP) — "I fell through a coal chute and I'm trying to get out," said a young man police found in the basement of a cafe.

"He certainly should have been able to get out," Sergeant Lee Raedel said. "He had a crowbar and a file."

The young man was held for investigation.

QUARREL FATAL

Cleveland Relief Client Dies as Result of Hatchet Wounds.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Anton Chaloupka, 9, a relief client, died in a hospital today of hatchet wounds which police said were inflicted by another man during a quarrel.

George Karajlovich, 50, surrendered to police and was said to have admitted striking Chaloupka several times with the broad side of a hatchet.

DEFENDS AIDE

Ex-Pennsylvania Governor on Stand in Blackmail Trial.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Former Governor George H. Earle was called back to the courtroom today to resume his defense of the conduct of David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, on trial on charges of blackmail and conspiracy.

Never, Earle told the jury yesterday, did his former secretary of the commonwealth ask him to do anything "for or against" the Pioneer Materials company, whose dealings with the state for gravel contracts resulted in Lawrence's indictment.

The former chief executive told of discussing reports that substandard gravel had been sold to the highways department with two of his cabinet officers—Charles J. Margiotti, whom he fired as attorney general in an aftermath of the investigation of the contracts, and Colonel Lynn G. Adams, state police superintendent who conducted the inquiry.

Explaining why he had Adams handle the investigation, rather than Margiotti, Earle said: "If Mr. Margiotti would have investigated it would be almost investigating himself. He was an interested party, had been urging the award of business to the company involved."

BYSTANDER IN GUNFIGHT DIES

Detroit Policeman, Robber Hurt Companion Captured.

DETROIT—(AP)—Caught in a crossfire of bullets as police battled with two gunmen at a lumber yard, Charles Fisher, 42, a bystander, was shot to death shortly before midnight.

Patrolman Joseph Moffatt and Solomon Smith were wounded in the exchange of gunfire.

Moffatt said police came upon Smith and a companion as they tried to blow open the lumber yard office safe. A blast from a police shotgun fractured Smith's arm when he attempted to escape down an alley after emptying his pistol at the police. The second man, William McKee, surrendered. Moffatt was wounded in the arm and side.

Fisher, attracted to the scene from a nearby beer garden, was shot in the head when he stepped into the line of fire.

PICK DELEGATES TO STATE MEET

Izaak Walton Members To Send 2 To Columbus Convention.

Delegates to the annual state meeting in Columbus Friday and a nominating committee were named at a meeting of the Richland County chapter of the Izaak Walton League last night at Sue's restaurant on Wayne street.

Representing the chapter at the state meeting will be Glenn Wheaton, delegate, and Lloyd Barr, president, who will attend as a director of the state organization.

Named to the nominating committee were R. M. Lamb, H. M. Bride and Alvin Fankhauser. The annual election of officers will be held in January. Plans for the league's annual Christmas party for children at the Richland County Children's home also were outlined. Carl R. Warren, game management of the Charles Mill lake, was guest speaker.

Economists Predict Farm Income Will Rise In 1940.

AMHERST, Mass.—(AP)—Asserting that farmers should look to improved home markets rather than better foreign markets in 1940, Massachusetts State college economists today predicted increased farm incomes for 1940.

Basing the prediction on the assumption that business would continue to improve and that wage earners would have more money for food, the economists said in a report on a study of the farm outlook for the next year that foreign war needs would have little influence.

Accused Men Refuse Testimony in Greenlun Case.

ASHLAND—Mark L. Lutz, justice of the peace, and Walter Petchler, constable, Brunswick village officials who are under indictment for criminal libel in Ashland county, yesterday refused to give testimony before the state civil service commission here on the ground that it might incriminate them.

The two were among witnesses summoned to testify in the appeal which Robert S. Greenlun, former highway employe, had filed protesting his dismissal by Robert S. Beightler, head of the state highway department.

Testimony was heard in the common pleas court room for seven hours. Two witnesses, Paul Parker and A. L. Straub, both highway employes, testified that Greenlun had solicited them for Democratic campaign funds. And 15 fellow-workers swore that Greenlun had not engaged in political activities. The case was taken under advisement.

A motor clinic, staged by the Ethyl Gasoline corporation, will open here Friday at 86 East Third street, clinic officials announced today.

The clinic, in which a full-sized automobile is put through a series of tests, will remain in the city until Jan. 15.

Its purpose, according to Manager W. A. Newman, who brings the clinic here from Marion, is to show motorists how to obtain maximum performance from their cars, and to show service station and repair and maintenance men what to do to make cars more efficient.

The clinic will be open each evening except Saturdays and Sundays from Friday through Jan. 15. Numerous demonstration, all open to the public, reveal motor facts never before seen outside a research laboratory, clinic officials claim.

BOY, 4, INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

8 Others Escape Unhurt in Early Morning Accident on Route 42.

A four-year-old boy received minor head lacerations, and eight other persons, five of them children and all colored, excaped injuries when an auto in which they were riding struck a parked truck at 4:15 a. m. today on route 42 on a curve at Orchard park, near Lexington.

Walter Sammons of Alabama was treated at General hospital for minor head lacerations.

A car driven by Eddie Richardson of Cleveland, struck a truck parked 10 feet off the highway, patrolmen reported. Richardson told officers he was blinded by lights of an oncoming car and did not see the truck.

JOINS SIGMA CHI

Hallabrin One of 3 From City Initiated at Ohio State.

Hallabrin was initiated into Sigma Chi fraternity. Also initiated during the week were Mervin Scott, Alpha Chi Rho and William Ahrendt, Phi Gamma Delta.

Two other Mansfielders were named in news dispatches from the university. Robert H. McCormick has been elected treasurer of Bucket and Dipper, junior men's honorary, and Robert E. Tobias has been named to the sophomore editorial staff of the Makio, yearbook.

MURDER TRIALS OF YOUTHS SET

Lancaster Reform School Inmates to Be Tried In January.

LANCASTER — (U.P.) — Two inmates of the Boys' Industrial school will go on trial on first degree murder charges in January in connection with the fatal beating of Axel Stromstead, a tailor at the school, last May 31.

Two alienists of the Lima state hospital reported that Robert E. Lee, 18, Norwood, Mass., was sane. Lee had been sent to the hospital for observation after he pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. William S. Hart, 18, of Middletown, had pleaded innocent to the same charge.

Sisters Describe Investments in Cemetery Sale Trial.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The government today braced its case in U. S. district court against 12 men charged with mail fraud and conspiracy in the sale of cemetery lots with the testimony of two Dayton, O., sisters who told of investing $47,900 in Arlington Memorial park here.

A salesman of the Arlington Development company told them repayments would start within seven months, the Misses Helen and Marie Ratterman, who testified to making the large investment, said.

Their purchase of lots was a year after Emmett Jackson, manager of the Dayton Better Business Bureau and a former criminal court judge in Lima, O., in 1934 warned Stewart S. Cooper, one of the 12 defendants, that all was not as it should be in the sale of cemetery lots.

"I told him that we had found in every instance where cemetery lots had been sold for investment the public had lost," Jackson said. "I told him that his name, and that of Dr. J. Stewart Hagen (a co-defendant) were used in the sale of lots to show what a wonderful development it was going to be."

EXPENSES MET

Crestline School Board Acts to Improve Buses.

CRESTLINE—Authorization of transfer of funds from the continuance emergency fund to the general fund to meet the financial bills of the month was made at the monthly meeting of the board of education last evening in the school library. The meeting was held at the close of the annual football banquet.

T. A. Cox, president of the board, presided. The board discussed the necessary changes to be made on the school buses to comply with state regulations. It also decided that the buses would be used the balance of the school year when necessary for special conveyance of the school pupils.

The resignation of C. E. Jones as a member of the library board was accepted and the school board appointed Mrs. W. E. Lyman to fill the vacancy.

LOSES LICENSE

Autoist's Driving Rights Revoked, Fined $150 After Accident.

Samuel Morris, R. F. D. 4, who pleaded guilty yesterday in municipal court to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was fined $150 and costs and his license revoked for a year by Acting Judge Herbert H. Schettler today.

The court suspended $100 of the fine on condition that Morris pay for the damages to the car of Wilbur Forsham, 193 East Third street. Morris' machine hit Forsham's car at Adams and East Fourth early yesterday morning.

FIRE AT TWO PLANES

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — Dutch anti-aircraft guns fired today at two foreign airplanes of unknown nationality. The planes flew over The Hague and then disappeared into the clouds.

Sherwood Silent On Pleas Here In Behalf of Jenkins

While Mansfield friends of Thomas C. Jenkins continued today to interest themselves in his defense, there was no reaction or response from the office of State Welfare Director Charles Sherwood who suspended the veteran prison head Monday.

John H. Finefrock, one of the Mansfielders who sent a telegram of protest to Sherwood yesterday, said he had received a number of calls from persons who wanted to register their protests against the manner in which Jenkins is "being kicked around" after years of service.

Finefrock said he was not circulating a petition and had told all who called that the most direct and effective way in which to register a protest was to wire Sherwood in Columbus.

Sherwood suspended Jenkins for 30 days as superintendent of the London Prison farm in order to give him a chance to resign. He said that "under no circumstances" could Jenkins return to the prison farm.

Jenkins' three-month leave of absence as superintendent expired yesterday.

SISTER DIES IN WEST

Mrs. J. C. Woods of Central Point, Oregon, sister of Mrs. Brainard Hoffer, 137 West Dickson avenue, died at her home yesterday. Mrs. Wood had visited here a number of times. Surviving besides Mrs. Hoffer are her husband and two other sisters.

FILES PROJECT

Sword Applies for WPA Aid on North Main Bridge.

Given assurance by city council last night of participation in the project, County Engineer Howard C. Sword went to Columbus today to file application for a $18,000 bridge project on North Main street with state WPA officials.

The proposal on which approval will be sought calls for the construction of a 40-foot cement span between the Erie and Pennsylvania railroads on North Main street to replace a structure which collapsed last spring.

Council at last night's meeting approved a resolution obligating the city to the extent of $700 on the proposed construction to be used principally for surfacing the span and for obtaining the necessary right-of-way.

QUAKE DISTRICT OF NORTHWEST STILL QUIVERS

(By United Press)

HELENA, Mont.—More than 2,500 earth tremors have recorded by the U. S. weather bureau here since the disastrous earthquakes of October, 1935, when property damage amounted to approximately $4,000,000 and four lives were lost.

In the past four years, however, only two or three of the temblors have been of sufficient magnitude to trip the seismograph in the Federal building.

The others reported are those felt by more than one person, since the weather bureau does not record them unless at least two persons feel the shock.

Only a few wrecked buildings on South Main street remain to remind residents of two of the most terrifying nights in this city's history.

All Montana Shaken.

The most violent quake ever experienced in Helena occurred at 9:47 p. m., Oct. 18, 1935. All of Montana and portions of the states to the south and west and the Canadian provinces to the north experienced the temblor.

At Helena the shock lasted 30 to 40 seconds and was given a rating of "9" in intensity. Two of this city's earthquake fatalities occurred on this date. Property damage was estimated at $3,500,000.

During the latter part of October many minor tremors were reported. On Oct. 31, 1935, at 11:37 a. m., the second major shock of the month occurred, adding $500,000 to the already severe property loss and two more deaths.

Shocks for 80 Days.

These major earthquakes were preceded by two lesser ones—the first on Oct. 3 and the second Oct. 12. The Oct 3 temblor was the forerunner of more than 1,200 recorded during the ensuing 80 days.

From Oct. 3, 1935, to Oct. 6, 1939, the U. S. weather bureau here recorded 2,573 individual tremors. The most severe in recent months occurred May 11, 1939, at Trident, Mont.

Earthquakes have been common in the geological past in Montana. One of the first recorded here was in May, 1869.

Montana School of Mines geologists attribute the prevalence of shocks at Helena to the presence of a deeply covered fault in the Prickly Pear valley in which the state capital is located.

TAKE TO BIKES

Italians Pedal When Cost of Gas Ends Auto Driving.

ROME —(AP)— The bicycle business continues to have a "mushroom" growth.

The restriction on private motoring and the high price of gasoline—$1 a gallon—is making thousands of persons ride bicycles for the first time in their lives.

Private automobiles have been stored in garages or sold to people who can afford to buy gasoline.

The ministry of public works said 155,000 more bicycles came into circulation in Italy during September and October, 1939.

Bicycle prices usually run from 200 lire ($10) to 600 lire (30), dependent upon whether they are new or second-hand. Bicycles are rented for two lire (10 cents) per hour.

Always A STEP AHEAD!

C. I. T., for over 30 years the leader in sales financing, announces the opening of Mansfield office to better serve the City of Mansfield and surrounding territory.

C.I.T pioneered automobile sales financing in America. Once cars were sold only for cash and only the wealthy could buy.

C.I.T. pioneered the experiment of time sales financing, and today has more than 200 branches throughout the country, serving installment buyers of all kinds of motor cars to the extent of hundreds of thousands of cars a year!

C.I.T. through making it possible for more people to buy, has aided volume production and has helped to lower the price of all motor cars so that all America can ride!

C.I.T. finances the sale of many other types of commodities such as refrigerators, radios, oil burners, home improvements (through the F.H.A. Plan) and many types of production machinery.

C.I.T. has progressively lowered financing rates throughout the years, and today C.I.T. rates to all purchasers are as low as those offered to the select few under other finance plans.

C.I.T. has maintained for many years offices in other principal Ohio cities and has financed the sale of tens of thousands of automobiles and household commodities for Ohio residents.

NOW — Another Step Ahead!

The opening of a complete local office in Mansfield will enable C.I.T. to better serve old friends and make new ones throughout the Mansfield area.

This Means

even better service by C.I.T. to buyers of cars and other commodities. It means even better service to Mansfield dealers. It means more jobs for Mansfield people. It means more money spent in Mansfield and the employment of more Mansfield capital.

Ask your dealer about C.I.T. financing the next time you make a purchase. You'll find that your best interests will be served as they have been since 1908, by the world's largest independent sales financing institution.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1939.

Somewhat confused by the mixup, a number of youngsters have hit on the idea that every Thursday should be Thanksgiving.

If some people devoted as much time and interest to their job as they do to trying to get something for nothing their services would be worth considerably more.

Bonus for Rubber Workers

AN OPTIMISTIC outlook for the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company, as evidenced by yesterday's announcement of an expanded production program and continuance of the company's policy of making an annual distribution of a bonus to employes, serves to further brighten Mansfield's industrial picture at the approach of the new year.

Substantial investment in new buildings, machinery and equipment within the past year, coupled with gratifying success in expanding the market for Mansfield-made tires, have made possible an increase in production and employment that has benefited this community in many ways, as well as being directly beneficial to those associated with this enterprise.

It is also noteworthy, as mentioned by George W. Stephens, president of the company, that practically all additional help has been drawn from Mansfield and vicinity. The long tenure of employment of many workers in this industry, and the fine spirit of employer-employe relationship that has extended through many years also merits mention.

Self-Supporting Blind Persons

SELDOM is a stronger appeal made to the heart than by the annually-conducted sale of articles of various kinds made by blind persons, and sold in order that the makers can be self-sustaining or at least contribute partially to their own support.

Such a sale is being conducted in Mansfield this week, with a number of local club women in charge, and even small purchases by many people make an appreciable total for use in stimulating activities by the blind in this and other communities.

The variety in articles produced by blind workers may occasion surprise among those not familiar with the accuracy and versatility which can be developed by persons deprived of the blessing of sight. The display is well worth seeing and purchase of some needed article will evidence interest in a worthy form of helpfulness to others.

Musical Afternoon and Evening

COMING of the White Hussars to Mansfield tomorrow for afternoon and evening concerts in Senior high school auditorium is another of the occasions to which music lovers of this city and vicinity look forward with pleasant anticipation.

This symphonic and operatic ensemble, under direction of Herbert Petrie, has been widely acclaimed for the excellence and variety of musical entertainment and it is especially gratifying that an afternoon program has been arranged for elementary, junior and senior high school pupils.

The fact that the White Hussars are being brought here as a part of the fund-raising campaign to outfit the high school band with new uniforms furnishes further incentive to patronage.

Selling Is Also an Essential

MANSFIELD again welcomes the visitors who are here this week from many parts of the United States as representatives of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company—here to become acquainted with new models in electric merchandise and to gather inspiration for their next year's work.

While a trip such as this has its lighter moments of entertainment and diversion, its more serious purpose is recognized by all who are privileged to attend the business sessions which make up a large part of the week's program.

Those who see no further than the expanse of fine buildings which are occupied by Westinghouse in Mansfield, or who judge this industry after considering the thousands of employes and viewing the mammoth machines and vast amount of other equipment required for production, may have little idea of the responsibilities resting upon a far-flung marketing organization through which the finished products of Westinghouse flow through distributors and dealers to the eventual user of each article produced.

Failure to realize the necessary steps that lie between production and retail sale at some distant point—possibly in another country—may be partially responsible for over-emphasis on some particular phase of industrial operation as being most essential, but fair consideration must lead to the conclusion that the success of industry, large and small, is dependent on a number of contributing factors, including capital investment, management, production employes, quality of output, and a capable, energetic and loyal sales organization which must function efficiently and continuously, else all of the earlier steps would be futile.

So, to those Westinghouse visitors who are now in Mansfield, and to those who will come later in the week, we extend hearty welcome, coupled with recognition of the importance of their work. We hope they will enjoy their stay here and return to their homes with pleasant recollections of this visit in Mansfield.

Fewer Football Injuries

PARENTS concerned about the dangers of football had better be devoting their worries to times during which their children are out with the automobile, according to comparison of hazards as revealed by recent surveys in the two fields.

While motoring injuries and deaths among young people have been on the increase the opposite has been the case in football, according to Dr. Floyd Eastwood, of Purdue university, who carefully collects data on football injuries and deaths in the United States each year.

Injuries and fatalities in football have been confined almost entirely to minor colleges, secondary schools and semi-pro or corner-lot games, in which health examination, proper supervision and suitable protective equipment have been lacking. It has been a number of years since a player for a major college team has died as the result of a football injury.

While such a strenuous sport as football cannot be regarded as entirely safe the record indicates that the risk is not so great as that taken on even a short motor trip—especially after midnight.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here's a quick checkup on Alec Templeton, whose phonograph records you are familiar with, and who was born blind in Cardiff, South Wales, just 29 yars ago:

Showed exceptional musical ability at two years of age . . . composed his first real composition, a slow movement consisting of 16 bars, when he was four . . . Studied music at home between ages of five and nine . . . Attended Worcester College, England, until 17 years old, studying under Sir Ivor Atkins, organist of Worcester Cathedral . . . During that time, won British Broadcasting company prize for composition . . . Then tutored by Sir Walford Davies, master of King's music and organist of King's private chapel at Windsor Castle . . . Graduated from Royal Academy of Music . . . later won scholarship for piano and composition at same institution, and obtained degree of Associate of Royal College of Music . . . Came to this country in 1935 with Jack Hylton's band, appearing on radio and in theaters.

AMAZED American music lovers with ability to blend, at random, three divergent songs of as varied a scope as "Flat Foot Floogie," "The Pilgrim's Chorus," and "The Toreador's Song" from Carmen. . . . Remained in this country after Hylton returned to England, making appearances on Magic Key and Bing Crosby radio programs. . . . At present starred on own radio program, making a concert tour throughout the country, and making records.

Templeton stands 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 135, dark brown hair, long, slim, tapering, sensitive looking hands . . . Versatility extends from swing to symphony . . . Is the composer of "Bach Goes to Town," a jazz classic which Benny Goodman recorded. . . . Relies on friend, and companion, Stanley North, who has been with him for several years, for service while recording and broadcasting.

TEMPLETON'S main pleasures are beer, Yorkshire pudding, walking, riding, swimming, four hours daily piano practice . . . Collects mouth organs, records and radios as a hobby . . . His apartment is over-run with them . . . has passed all tests for American citizenship, only awaits his papers . . . Additional compositions include "Mendelssohn Mows 'Em Down," "Mozart Matriculates," which he calls swingphonies, "Man With New Radio" and "Phonograph Record, Player Piano and Carmen Lombardo," both of which he recorded . . . latter two are brilliant examples of Templeton wit and satire, one of most outstanding examples being his recording of "And the Angels Sing" as it might have been presented at Metropolitan Opera House.

In addition to piano, he plays violin, organ, 'cello and a very hot mouth organ.

Music critics agree that he has the most amazing memory of any living artist . . . they cite an event that took place in Chicago at private party attended by Violinist Nathan Milstein . . . Milstein asked Templeton if he knew Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole" . . . Templeton replied that he didn't but that he had heard it played several times and that if he (Milstein) would forgive any errors he would try to remember it. Not a single mistake did Templeton make, playing the music exactly as it was written.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Dec. 6, 1919.

Ground was covered with snow, for the first time in the season.

Shipments of coal relieved local shortage due to miners' strike.

David Nunamaker, 72, died.

Son was born at Canton to Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. McNiece, formerly of Mansfield.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Dec. 6, 1934.

Service-Safety Director James F. Carrigan recommended construction of a municipal plant for production of light and power for operation of waterworks system, sewerage plant and street-lighting.

Paul W. Williams was toastmaster at Central Ohio Traffic club dinner-dance.

County commissioners expressed need for new Children's home for Richland county.

Production from gas well on Dr. L. C. Benedict's Worthington township property, provided Ohio Fuel Gas company with additional source of supply.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On Dec. 6, 1917, due to the explosion of 3,000 tons of high explosive in the steamship Mont Blanc in Halifax harbor, N. S., two square miles of the city were devastated and more than 1,000 persons killed or injured.

BRIGHTENING THEM UP AGAIN

Listen, World!

How Much Do You Live?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU WONDER, anxiously—. "How long will I live." But length of life isn't the important concern. You can't achieve happiness merely by piling up a record on the calendar. It's QUALITY not QUANTITY of life that counts . . . that makes your life a success or failure. Instead of asking how LONG, ask rather how MUCH you live?

Life isn't measured by days. It's measured by FEELINGS. You LIVE as much as you FEEL.

You live as high as your own HOPE—

As deep as your own CURIOSITY—

As wide as your own COURAGE—

And by no possible method can you live more than you feel.

Daily you meet magnificent lives—and mean ones. By our usual way of reckoning, money should provide that magnificence; poverty be responsible for that meanness. If enough things happen TO a person—if he goes enough places, sees enough things, has enough possessions—he should be colorful, magnetic and delightfully happy. But it doesn't follow. As often as not, the gay and gallant person is in rags, and the starved, sour spirit wears ermine. But why?

Because we live not in what we HAVE, but in what we ARE.

Unless you yourself feel excitement, nothing is exciting. Unless you yourself are curious, there are no adventures. Unless you yourself burn and yearn, nothing is inspiring, nothing is lovely.

Life, in the raw, is much like food. It IS the highest form of food. Food has little meaning for you until you eat and assimilate it. Then it becomes valuable because it becomes part of your living body. But no food can become part of your body until you have chewed it and churned it over within your body—digested it.

Emotion does for the spirit what the stomach does for the flesh. Emotion takes the crude stuff of circumstance and transforms it into part of your living experience. But lacking that emotion, the circumstance remains meaningless.

Two men, for example, witness the same street scene. One man observes all the actions—then shrugs his shoulders and passes on. That street scene has done nothing to him or for him because he has done nothing with it. He has made no attempt to quicken it with his own excitement, his own pity, of wonder, or curiosity.

The other man, however, sees the same scene—and flames! He has trained his interest and imagination to reach out and take in, and turn whatever he sees into personal profit. Now, in this simple scene, he sees drama, and his whole life becomes richer and warmer.

Life is like that. It quickens into meaning only when you yourself quicken.

That is why most of our great schemes for uplifting humanity go amiss; why human life remains on such a drab level, despite our enormous charity. We should, it is true, give everyone a decent break materially. BUT NO AMOUNT OF MONEY OR TRAINED SERVICE CAN BUY HAPPINESS OR EXCITEMENT FOR ANY HUMAN BEING. It's up to the individual himself to change inert life into throbbing living.

Stop whining because circumstances don't make your world dramatic, and begin to provide your own drama. Reach out, wonder and risk! Fire the dull stuff of your experience with your own FAITH . . . deepen it with your CURIOSITY and TENDERNESS. Talk to the people, think the thoughts, do the things you've hitherto ignored. And little by little YOUR LIFE WILL BECOME ALIVE.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Meaning of "Carte Blanche".

It is the aptest idiom we know to express freedom to act as one pleases, influenced or dictated to by nothing save one's discretion.

So, it is not to be wondered at that the English language, melting pot of metaphor, without benefit of by your leave or even grateful acknowledgment first borrowed then kept the French phrase carte blanche.

No better word picture could have been designed to convey the idea of complete absence of instructions.

Carte blanche means literally "white (or blank) paper."

Timely Editorial

Newspaper Difficulties.

A few days ago the Star-Eagle, a daily newspaper that had served Newark, N. J., for many years, went out of business.

And on Saturday, the San Diego Sun suspended publication.

The Sun had been in business 59 years, a long time considering the age of San Diego, and that it will be missed by its former readers, as well as by its former employes, appears certain.

Already some seventy daily newspapers in this country have been forced to the wall since the first of the year.

And in virtually every case the reason for suspending publication has been mounting costs of production due principally to increased cost of labor, at a time when newspapers are harassed by rising newsprint prices and taxation.

The steady parade of daily newspapers toward the graveyard shows that there is a point beyond which labor and other costs cannot be increased without forcing everyone in the plant to look for new jobs.—Detroit Free Press.

Tuberculosis Rout Not Yet Complete.

—By DR. CLENDENING

WE ARE in the season when the Christmas seals of the National Tuberculosis association are distributed, and this column heartily recommends that everyone, who can possibly afford it, buy a page of them and use them. The money so accumulated by this association is well spent, and the advertising which you give to the movement by placing a seal on the back of your Christmas mail will spread interest in the great campaign.

We have tuberculosis on the run. That is the reason why this campaign must be encouraged. There has been a consistent decline in the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States from nearly 200 per 100,000 population in 1900 to about 50 for 1938. While this is gratifying, the statement does not picture the true situation. The round numbers tell us nothing about the special problems yet to be solved before the fight against tuberculosis can be declared won.

Your seals pay only for certain work done by your local tuberculosis society. Besides this work, the national movement and state and county governments are spending a great deal of time and thought on tuberculosis control.

Contact Cases.

A national health program was presented at the National Health Conference in Washington, July, 1938. The section on tuberculosis recommended case finding, especially by x-ray examination of contacts of known cases, isolation and treatment of persons with active disease, and periodic examination of those with latent or quiescent disease.

This summarizes the objectives of the present campaign against tuberculosis. In plain language it means that we now believe that most cases of tuberculosis in humans are acquired by contact with other humans. We also believe that the quickest and surest way of making a diagnosis in an adult is by an x-ray plate of the chest. Therefore, when a known case is found, it is logical to examine all the members of the family and other contacts by x-ray in order to spot others.

Following this, the logical step is to segregate in hospitals or sanatoria those who have open or contagious tuberculosis.

It is estimated that about 40,000 more beds for tuberculosis patients are needed in the United States.

Case finding in school children has been in operation since 1924. The school program suffers from failure to secure parental consent for the investigation of more than 50 to 60 per cent of the children. The advantages of the findings of tuberculosis in school children are twofold—to the affected child and to the community. Yet, these advantages are fully realized only when the investigation includes both children and family contacts.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Best diplomatic information from Moscow indicates that the sudden attack on Finland was motivated primarily by the situation in the Balkans—especially Rumania.

Secretly Rumania is a more important Russian objective than Finland. And while Finland is a long way off, and ostensibly there is little connection between them, actually the manner in which Finland had stalled off Moscow was causing loss of prestige in the Balkans. In other words, Rumania was wondering whether Russia really meant business, and whether she in turn, couldn't out-maneuver Stalin just as Finland seemed to be doing.

This loss of prestige was what finally induced Stalin to act, according to intelligence reports coming out of Moscow. Apparently, he figured that it was better to make such a vigorous example of Finland that Rumania and other Balkan objectives would yield without war.

One group in the Soviet inner circle wanted to wait until Communist agitation inside Finland was so active that the country could be shaken into the Russian lap like a ripe plum, without a struggle. This policy was being pursued. But Stalin got impatient and decided that the Balkan program would have to be speeded up.

Finnish Notes.

REASON the Swedes, despite neighborly distress, don't do something to help Finland, is fear of Germany. Hitler long has had his eyes on Sweden's famous iron mines, and would like nothing better than an excuse to move in on them.

The British, as usual, were wrong about Russia. Up until the last minute they were convinced Stalin would not move in on Finland. Our state department, relying upon British information, thought so too.

Government Economy.

EARNEST, economy-minded Henry Morgenthau insists that all members of his treasury department use his coast guard radio in sending government telegrams. However, Henry's economy on a recent $3.24 telegram will cost the government just about $2,000,000.

All this happened when Roosevelt removed the quotas on sugar, thereby increasing the tariff from ninety cents to $1.50. The announcement was carefully timed for late in the afternoon, when all customs offices would be closed, so no one could rush sugar through some uninformed customs house at the old 90 cent tariff.

By next morning, the treasury figured, all sugar importers and all customs houses would know of the tariff increase, and it would be applied uniformly. However, Secretary Morgenthau's economy upset this plan. For the telegram from Washington to New York, sent by coast guard radio on the afternoon of Sept. 11 did not reach the Customs House in New York until around noon Sept. 12.

The coast guard now blames naval radio for the delay. The navy handles all coast guard messages, and apparently the navy didn't think the message urgent, so put a lot of routine naval messages ahead of it. Anyway, the telegram took about 16 hours getting to New York.

Meanwhile the collector of customs in New York, having read about the tariff increase in the papers, frantically awaited the telegram.

Finally, at about 10:30 he telephoned Washington and had the telegram read to him. However, regulations make customs offices await the receipt of telegraphic orders before raising the tariff, so although the telegram was read over the phone at 10:30, it was not actually received in New York until 12:54 noon Sept. 12. So it was at exactly 12:54 that the tariff was increased from 90 cents to $1.50.

Meanwhile sugar dealers were dumping sugar in New York at the old tariff rate of 90 cents. And they dumped so much before 12:54 noon that the Government lost around $2,000,000.

Capital Chaff.

IF YOU don't see much of Frank Murphy these days the reason is that he is doing a lot of behind-the-scenes digging to bring about a labor peace. Both he and Roosevelt are desperately anxious to put this across before Frank goes up on the Supreme Court. . . . Movie star Melvyn Douglas garnered more fans in the White House last week when President and Mrs. Roosevelt gave a dinner for him. At a New Deal luncheon also he met almost the entire Inner Circle—Ickes, Murphy, Tom Corcoran, Ben Cohen, Aubrey Williams, Lowell Mellett, Leon Henderson. All, incidentally, were invited to Hollywood. All accepted. . . . Business moguls who hear Senator Burt Wheeler at the National Manufacturers Association annual splurge this week may be interested to know that he got the OK of labor before accepting the invitation. Wheeler was especially meticulous about getting the OK of the Railroad Brotherhoods and John L. Lewis. . . . Burt has his eye very much on 1940.

Santa Claus Cotton.

HENRY WALLACE, acting as Santa Claus, with Milo Perkins as Santa Claus' helper, are planning a surprise Christmas package to the cotton industry. It will be a new Stamp Plan for disposal of cotton goods to low-income families.

Much pleased with the success of the Stamp Plan for disposal of surplus foods, Wallace directed Perkins, who runs the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, to explore the possibility of doing the same thing with cotton goods. Perkins has had several conferences with business groups, and is almost ready to move.

The plan calls for distribution to relief families of stamps, which will be accepted as cash in retail stores for purchase of heavy cotton goods such as mattresses, blankets, sheets, towels, overalls, and piece goods.

Wallace is hoping to blot from American life the bitter US version of The Man With The Hoe—the poor farmer in patched overalls and threadbare shirt working in a field to increase the surplus of the cotton crop whose products he cannot afford to buy.

The Settler's Grave

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I ROAMED over our spacious piece of timber and counted the largest trees. One mammoth white oak I marked for its giant top was a lifeless maze of twisted branches and a heavy storm would be apt to split and crush the splendid trunk. There are ten others of that famous race, whose great tall tops are full of life in every part. They must be more than a century old. Perhaps John Paul Jones thundered defiance against the British admiral's threat in the War of 1812. Perhaps they were tender seedlings when the first white settler built his cabin in this lovely valley.

I wandered about, wading deep layers of fallen leaves, listening to the wind in the treetops and then suddenly I stopped. A mossy marble headstone was stuck into a loose pile of standstone at the edge of the clearing that follows downward to our home. It stood 20 inches above the small chipped native shale that anchored it.

The eastern side was plain. Against the drabness of the forest floor, the chalky whiteness was visible for some distance. But the other side was mossy and had spots of lichens upon the upper surface. The wind, sand and frost had etched the aged stone. With some difficulty I read, "JAMES, son of G. and B. A——, died Sept. 1852, aged 43 years, 3 mo. 28 days."

This lonely grave had been literally carved from the sandstone rock and the small pieces were turned back again in a moundlike heap. A red oak stump stood a foot from the southern edge. The grave was not directly east and west, as many of the old eastern burying grounds are made. I took off my hat and bowed my head in reverence. Beneath this mound lay the dust of one who had carved the fertile fields I live upon out of the primitive forest; who first tilled the soil and made it fruitful; who drank from the same abundant spring I now enjoy and fed his herds upon the grassy meadows. Perhaps he stood upon this hill, as I do now, and admired its beauty. He loved it and it was his home, for his family name has been long on the records of the farm.

No more fitting place for such a grave could be ever found, and I shall keep the humble marker straight and firm within its stony base.

SHE'S DIFFERENT BEAUTY QUEEN

Collegiates Pick 'Plain Jane' To Be Their Guest at Football Game.

MISS BULLARD.

MIAMI, Fla.—Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, wearied of collegiate beauty queens, elected a "Plain Jane" at the University of Miami and awarded her a trip to a football game.

Miss Lynn Bullard, a studious senior, was the winning "Plain Jane." She uses little makeup and parts her hair in the middle. The hair is too dark to be blonde and too light to be brunette. Her figure is slender.

No one, however, was able to discover any serious drawbacks in her lack of "oomph," if any. She is a sorority member, attends dances regularly, and has a steady boy friend, a varsity football player.

Said Miss Bullard: "Glamour is a grand thing, but I'm having a wonderful time without it. I'm awfully glad to be elected Plain Jane."

Hawaii Battles Plague Spread By Field Rats

HONOLULU—(U.P.)—A constant battle is being waged in the Hawaiian Islands against rat carriers of plague, which first appeared in 1899 and never has been completely stamped out.

Thirty-three cases of rat plague and six cases of human plague have been discovered on the island of Maui since 1931. Maui county sanitary engineer, Louis Herschler, reported in a recent address before the Maui Lions club at Wailuku.

Herschler said the death rate from plague in the islands is 99 per cent as compared with an average of 75 per cent in other parts of the world. He said seven of 10 persons contracting plague were infected by rat fleas.

Phosphorus on bananas, of which 600,000 pieces were planted in fields and elsewhere since the first of the year, is the principal means of eliminating the rodents, Herschler said.

He pointed out that eradication of rats in the islands is extremely difficult since the sugar cane and pineapple fields, and abundance of wild vegetation, furnish the rats ideal living conditions.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores. 10¢ and 25¢.

New Son for Family Swapper

Michigan's celebrated wife-swapping case takes the headlines again as a son is born to Mrs. Edith June, 39, one of the two Lapeer, Mich., farm women who swapped families. She is being cared for by Mrs. Mildred Davis, 28, right, the other mother in the swapping case. The child is the 14th born to Mrs. June. In the swap, Mrs. June took 10 of her 13 children to the Davis menage along with the family cow. Mrs. Davis and her four children went to live with Clarence June. All four principals are awaiting judicial decision on their appeals from court sentences.

Draft-rioters in New York in 1863, resisting service in the Union army, held possession of the city for four days.

SEES INVASION OF SWEDEN AND NORWAY COMING

strong possibility that Germany will turn "red," he asserted. It was his belief that the longer the war goes on the more likely it is that German morale will sink and that when it sinks low enough Germany will accept communism. He expressed the opinion that it is not impossible that in six years' time the Allies will be facing a red army on the Rhine.

Russia's absorption of Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia and her invasion of Finland struck Knickerbocker as "the best indication of the character of Hitler." He said the very men whom many trusting Americans may have felt could be depended upon to keep bolshevism under control were the ones who "opened the door" to the reds in Europe.

The stalemate on the western front, according to Knickerbocker, was made possible only because both sides thought that time was working on their side. He thought, however, that time is working on the side of England and France.

"At present," said Knickerbocker, "the air strength is on a 10 to 7 basis with the ratio in Germany's favor. In other words, the Allies have but 70 per cent of Germany's strength in the air. The Allies, however, are rapidly evening this up."

It is different on land, with Germany having the edge because it can increase its land armies faster than can the Allies. He pointed out that the French have "a certain limit," France having a population of only 40,000,000 as against Germany's 80,000,000.

Explaining why he sees little likelihood of a big offensive on the western front until spring, Knickerbocker said:

"The Allies will not attack until they are superior to the Germans in the air. It seems a gift of God that Hitler hasn't staged his threatened blitzkrieg.

"Although the air strength is now 10 to 7 in Germany's favor the ratio is likely to be about even by spring. Then things may happen in a big way."

"You can't keep 10,000,000 men lined up against each other, ready for battle, without something cracking," he asserted.

fought back an increasing tide of Russian invaders.

The government issued a communique stating that 2,000 Russian troops had been captured since the invasion began last Thursday, and that 64 Russian tanks had been destroyed. The Finns said they destroyed eight Russian tanks and took many prisoners yesterday on the Karelian isthmus.

A government spokesman again today emphasized that Russian losses had been "very great compared to those of Finland."

After a heavy snow this morning the skies cleared somewhat and the few residents of deserted Helsinki went about their tasks with anxious eyes watching the dark skies.

In honor of independence won from Russia 22 years ago today, Finnish leaders placed wreaths on monuments Here and there in the boarded-up city blue and white Finnish flags fluttered

The new government headed by Premier Risto Ryti planned a customary reception for diplomats in the late afternoon.

It was stated officially today that Russian planes had been sighted yesterday over Esbo, a few miles west of Helsinki Authorities speculated that the Russians may be seeking a place near the capital for landing infantry troops by parachute

Packing Baskets of Food Bequeathed Needy

300 FAMILIES TO GET BASKETS OF FOOD UNDER GROCER'S WILL

Baskets of groceries went into the homes of dozens of Mansfield's less fortunate families today as distribution was started of 300 baskets of food made possible under the will of a veteran Mansfield grocer, George M. Morris, who died on Oct. 25.

Today's distribution — being made from the Mohawk Cash store, 28 North Adams street, which Morris operated for 45 years—will be followed with another distribution tomorrow. An additional 100 baskets will be given out next week and 100 more on the following week.

The unusual stipulation in the grocer's will covers a period of five years The testament directs distribution of 300 baskets of groceries each year through 1943 and sets up a $1,500 fund with which to pay for them.

Charged with responsibility of carrying out the bequest is Robert M Morris, 40 Wellington avenue, son of the grocer who was named executor of the will Associated with his father in operation of the Mohawk store for a number of years, Morris is now the proprietor.

The will orders that the food stuffs be distributed during the month of December of each year to needy persons.

To carry out the bequest this year, Morris obtained the names of 300 persons on Mansfield relief rolls from J V Finney, city relief director. Cards were mailed to each of them notifying them to call

Morris said that only household staples are packed in the baskets. Each includes potatoes, canned vegetables, coffee, beans, noodles, "macaroni dinners" and other nonperishable items

LAW TURNS TO KUHN'S FRIENDS

Bund Leader to Go to Sing Sing, Aides Face Possible Charges.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Fritz Kuhn was to be whisked off to Sing Sing prison today to start serving a 2½ to 5 years term for stealing money from his German-American bund but his incarceration there will not end the work of state and federal authorities.

In sentencing Kuhn, Judge G. Wallace expressed a belief that two of Kuhn's witnesses, James Wheeler-Hill, national secretary of the Bund, and Willy Luedtke, of the German-American Business League, had committed perjury. Prosecutor Herman J. McCarthy assured the judge that "proper action" would be taken.

If his behavior is good, Kuhn will be eligible for parole in 20 months.

3 BANKS TRIM INTEREST RATE

Citizens National Bank and Trust company reduced interest on all of its savings accounts to one per cent last July

The other three banks are paying two per cent at the present time on both savings and Christmas accounts.

Robert Gibson, cashier of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, said that the banks have lost money on Christmas savings because of postage involved and other work in handling them. He added that a number of Ohio cities make a charge for handling Christmas savings while others stopped paying interest on them several years ago.

"The reduction in interest by Mansfield banks is not done arbitrarily," he said, "but is something we have been forced to do much against our will. A number of factors have entered the banking business in the past several years which have tended to reduce interest as well as demands for borrowing money. The government is now in the banking business and provides sharp competition.

"In addition," he pointed out, "there is a two mill state tax on all accounts and money on deposit which the banks have absorbed. Banks all over the country have tremendous sums lying idle, and much of that which is loaned, such as municipal bonds, pays only two or two and a half per cent."

Gibson said that the interest on small savings, up to $2,000 was reduced only half of one per cent because officials believed "the small savers should have an added advantage."

BACK BRICKER RELIEF STAND

C. of C. Supports Refusal to Seek New Taxes to Aid Cities.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O — Directors of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce today supported Gov. John W. Bricker's refusal to call upon the state legislature for "additional taxes for relief purposes."

A resolution adopted by the chamber's governing board declared cities "have it in their power" to solve their own relief problems and that a special session of the general assembly was unwarranted.

Officials of several of the state's large cities, notably Cleveland and Toledo, have asked Governor Bricker to recall the legislature for the purpose of appropriating additional money for poor relief.

The chamber also opposed increasing unemployment compensation payments because "Ohio is already among the most liberal states" in jobless benefits.

Other resolutions:

Urged clarification of election laws governing proposals placed on the ballot "by initiative petition or otherwise,"

Opposed civil service reform by constitutional amendment;

Opposed any legislation to abolish the use of premiums in promoting business in Ohio;

Opposed exemption from taxation of homes valued at $5,000 or less, "or any other amount," and

A. Graves Williams of Portsmouth was reelected president, and Karl S. Dixon of Columbus confirmed as secretary.

HURT IN CRASH

BUCYRUS — Richard Lutz of Chatfield suffered bruises about the shoulders and eyes when the car in which he was riding with Gus Kline of Chatfield sideswiped a truck trailer north of Bucyrus early Tuesday. The accident occured as the truck pulled out to the center of the highway to pass a parked car. The Kline car was badly damaged.

HALTS MEASURE SHIFTING RELIEF

fact that the measure would have taken five jobs including that of relief director from the patronage list of Mayor-Elect William J. Locke who takes office Jan. 1.

Shultz charged that it was "too much to swallow in one dose," until he knew more about the terms of the proposed contract.

He told council he wanted to know what changes were being made under the proposal and the plan under which the city is now operating under an oral agreement with the commissioneres.

Nist explained that the contract was to call for payment of a flat figure of $550—the minimum administrative cost the city has had this year—for a six-month period.

He said the city would "get the best of the bargain" in that the contract was to be entered into a a time when the relief load would increase rather than decrease.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commisioners said today, when informed that council had not accepted the proposition which had been agreed upon late yesterday afternoon, that if the city refused the set-up "they can always set up their own relief office."

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has promised to make a magic doll for the King of Westphalia whose kingdom was badly wrecked the night the God of Lightning gave a feast for his son and set him off on his adventures.

And when the smoke cleared there stood the doll.

CHAPTER THREE
The New Doll.

SANTA sprang from his bed the next morning the minute the sun pink-tinted the icicles hanging outside his window.

He hummed a little tune as he pulled on his red breeches. He hummed as he tugged a silver comb through his long, white beard.

That was the day he meant to make a doll for the King of Westphalia. It was to be a doll like none you or I have ever seen. She was to be tall as a lady. And at midnight she was to have the power to talk to her owner about all the things that would interest a King.

So Santa was thinking hard by the time he went out into the Toyshop workroom. Mrs. Santa was setting breakfast. She put out pretty pewter dishes for Santa and herself. Little, tiny crystel dishes for the visiting woods fairies. Bright red dishes for the soldiers and the dolls.

Santa was so silent at breakfast that Mrs. Santa asked, "Are you worried about this doll?"

Santa put down his cup, scratched his forehead, and said, "Well, I guess I am I don't seem to see just how to make her. What do you think she ought to be?"

Plenty of Ideas.

Quick as a flash Mrs. Santa said, "She should have faith if she is to comfort the King."

"Right," said Santa, "and what else?"

"She must think of other people before herself," said the captain of the soldiers.

"Not too pretty," said another soldier.

"No? How?" asked Santa

"Oh," said a woods fairy,, "make her thoughtful looking with large eyes and a mouth that smiles easily."

"She should speak only the truth," said a tin soldier.

"Good gracious," said Santa "there are plenty of ideas. Now Mrs. Santa, what should she wear?"

"Oh, let her have yellow hair," said Mrs. Santa, "and a dress of soft blue chiffon with a little silver necklace and some cornflowers in her hair."

Wishes Come True.

Just then there was a puff of white smoke at the bottom of the huge Christmas tree that stands in the middle of the Toyshop. And when the smoke cleared there stoood the very doll about which they had all been talking. Santa hopped up with suprise and ran over to her. She was almost as tall as he was.

"Well!" exploded Santa Then, "pop," the little Queen of Fairies appeared on the doll's shoulder. She said, "Santa you are always making gifts for other people. Here is a gift for you I have let this doll grow as you talked, because you were really wishing. And I can make wishes come true."

"Can she talk to me after midnight?" asked Santa anxiously. "Can she talk of wars and crops and heaven and earth? That's what we need for the King."

"Wait and see," said the Fairy Queen and she twirled on her tiny toes. Mrs. Santa had walked to Santa's side and now she touched the long, full sleeve of the doll's dress.

It was shimmering, blue chiffon just as she had wished, and about the doll's neck was a lovely silver chain made in the pattern of little clover leaves. And in her long yellow hair were some cornflowers.

"She looks as I wished," said Mrs. Santa. "So she must be as you wished. Now you must wait until midnight to find out"

There was great excitement in the Toyshop that day. Santa went straight back to his work. And so did all the fairies that make dolls and wagons and doll furniture and horns and strings of beads. But they all kept stealing glances at the new doll.

After dinner the toys and fairies went to bed. Santa filled his pipe and sat down by the fire to wait for midnight.

TOMORROW: The son of Lightning comes to the Toyshop.

TRUCKER FINED

Assessed $85 and Costs as Result of Accident on Route 42.

Donald Whitmore, driver for a trucking company at West Salem, was fined $85 and costs when he was convicted of careless and reckless driving in municipal court yesterday. Acting Judge H. H. Schettler suspended $75 of the fine on condition that Whitmore pay damages to the other car.

Whitmore was arrested by state highway patrolmen on route 42 Sunday when his truck struck an auto that had stopped at a traffic signal.

AWARDED $378

Plaintiff Gets Verdict in Suit Against Real Estate Firm.

The county petit jury deliberated slightly more than an hour yesterday afternoon before awarding Bernard Wolf of Mansfield a judgment for $378.77 in his action for $557 against the Smith and Cloes real estate agency, Mansfield.

Wolf, who was represented by Atty. J. L. Mason of Ashland, sought the judgment as an amount he contended was due in a real estate deal. Beam and Beam were the defense attorneys.

The jury recessed until Thursday when it is scheduled to hear a $2,000 damage suit against the city of Mansfield.

Frank G. Witter brought the action, stating in his petition that his property on Central avenue was damaged when the city widened the street and allegedly left a steep embankment in front of his home. Witter's case will be argued by Atty. R. W. Stephenson while Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., will represent the city.

Falls and motor vehicle accidents killed 63 per cent of the 94,000 persons who died in accidents last year.

Traces Business Development In Talk to Rotarians

Paul Barrett, of Findlay, past district governor of Rotary International, spoke on "The Changing Voice of Business" at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Tracing business development in the United States from its earlier stages of operation by individuals and small groups, through a period of centralization and to the present movement toward decentralization, Barrett cited evidence of growing realization of the sociological obligation of American business to the public.

He also referred to the steadily developing inclination of large business enterprises to make themselves a part of each community in which they operate and to contribute to local activities.

"Tell the public the truth about business and the way it is conducted," Barrett advised, "so that people will know that dishonest practices are indulged in by only a small percentage of persons and firms engaged in business, and that confidence can be felt in the large majority of them."

Fred Tracy, chairman of the club's community service committee, was program chairman of the meeting.

The world's smallest country is Vatican City, which comprises 108.7 acres. The world's largest country is the USSR (Union of Soviet Socialist Republics) with an area of 8,144,228 square miles.

TELLS ABOUT LEGENDS AT AUDUBON AFFAIR

Mrs. H. C. McCutchan, Mrs. Fred Dippman Present Papers; Holiday Luncheon Served at Home of Mrs. H. M. Spandau Tuesday.

THE ORIGIN of our many Christmas customs was related yesterday morning by Mrs. H. C. McCutchan when members of the Audubon club met at the home of Mrs. H. M. Spandau, Shepard road, for a Christmas session. "Facts and Fancies of Christmas Legends" was the title. Mrs. Fred Dippman showed lantern slides of famous madonnas and described each.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Roy I. Curry, chairman, Mrs. Irving Cutting, Mrs. M. V. Scouten, Mrs. R. N. Campbell and Mrs. S. A. Richardson. There were 19 members and two guests seated at the long table in the game room which was decorated by Mrs. Henry Paulsen, chairman, Mrs. Fred Dippman, Mrs. R. E. Race and Mrs. Olive Frey. The guests were Mrs. Robert Spandau and Mrs. Francis Barrett.

Following the luncheon the members made 15 nature scrapbooks for shut-ins, and each contributed a gift-wrapped jar of preserves to be distributed during the halidays.

The next regular meeting will be a guest tea at the First Congregational church at 2 p. m. Jan. 2.

Present Program At Annual Event; Give Two Books

The annual Christmas party of the Dolly Madison club was held last night at the Children's home with a program being presented by William Nixon, accordionist, the Westinghouse Glee club accompanied by Miss Urith Funston, and a story by Mrs. R. L. Faulke. Seven girls from the home presented a playlet.

At this time the club presented the home with two books. This holiday presentation of books has become an annual custom with the organization. Plans ware made to pack a Christmas basket during the business meeting.

Committee members for last night's party included Mrs. C. B. Shill, Mrs. Harry Downs, Mrs. Charles Chew, Mrs. William Roth, Mrs. D. T. Lloyd, Mrs. Charles Ripper, Mrs. Marion Nixon, Mrs. J. W. Kennedy, Mrs. Philip Schmutzler and Mrs. F. E. Lingafelter.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 2 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel with Atty. George W. Biddle as guest speaker. Members of the hostess committee are Mrs. John Daley, Mrs. C. H. Beelman, Mrs. Wilbur Grumling, Mrs. C. V. Kinsell, Mrs. Fern Berry, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Herman Wentz, Mrs. Nona Darling, and Mrs. Carl Kahl.

Past Matrons Schedule District Meet Saturday

About 150 members of the 10th district of the Past Matrons association of the Order of the Eastern Star will meet at Mt. Gilead at 11 a. m. Saturday for their quarterly district meeting. Mt. Gilead and Cardington women will serve as hostesses. Following the morning business meeting there will be an initiation service. Luncheon will be served at noon.

Mansfield women planning to attend are Mrs. A. L. Ford, Mrs. Carl Troll, Mrs. Frank Culp, Mrs. Virgil Hartman, Mrs. John Schaff, Miss Hazel Zellner, Miss Nellie McIlvaine, Miss Thelma Hersh, Mrs. John Gross, Mrs. John Leistensnider, and Miss Lenora Horn.

20 ATTEND.

There were 20 members of the Pastor's Aid society of the St. Mark's Lutheran church present yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Marshall Long, 99 Lida street, when Mrs. Samuel Berger conducted the business meeting. A social hour and Christmas exchange followed, and the hostess served refreshments. The next meeting will be Jan. 2 with Mrs. William Eyerly, Springmill street.

Dinner Served Last Night To South Main Unit

There were 65 members and guests of the Rain and Shine class of the South Main Evangelical church in attendance at a Christmas dinner party in the church parlors yesterday evening. The dinner tables were decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, blue and white tapers and silver and white appointments.

Rev. C. L. Kern led the group in prayer, and Mrs. C. M. Hunter, class president, conducted the business session. Rev. Kern and W. G. Herrold gave short talks to open the program, after which Mrs. James Turner read a Christmas story. Mrs. Hazel Dovenbarger played a trombone solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mabel Eckert. A trio, composed of Miss Geraldine Harley, Miss Sylvia Martin and Mrs. Dovenbarger, sang several vocal numbers, after which Miss Dorothy Speck gave a reading. Miss Eckert and Mrs. Dovenbarger concluded the program with a piano duet.

A gift exchange followed the program. Mrs. W. G. Brickley and her committee were in charge of arrangements for the affair. The next meeting will be in the church parlors on Jan. 2.

Devotional Service Feature Of Meeting

A candlelight devotional service was given by Mrs. Wayne Williams yesterday when Mrs. Donald Curl, Glessner avenue, entertained members of the Senior W. W. G. of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Mrs. Williams told a story, and group singing of carols was interspersed. Incidental solos were sung by Mrs. Lawrence Whisler, Mrs. Glenn Brody; Miss Edna Boswell and Miss Willamine Hoffman.

Mrs. Hayes Braker told of Christmas abroad after which an appropriate holiday story and poem were given by Mrs. Holly Connor and Mrs. Clare Casto. Luncheon was served to 21 members and guests. The next meeting will be an event of Jan. 9 with Mrs. Willard Conn, Gibson avenue, hostess.

Serve Luncheon To Soroptimist Members

A 1 o'clock luncheon was served at small tables at the Towne House yesterday when members of the Soroptomist club met with Mrs. Forest Cleland and Mrs. George Biddle in charge. There were 18 members and two guests, Mrs. Walter Dow and Mrs. Chauncey Chatlain, present.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Biddle, Mrs. Lester Rist, Mrs. Blaine Swigart and Mrs. Philip Schmutzler when bridge was played during the afternoon. The next meeting will be a covered-dish dinner Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. Irilla Wappner, South Diamond street.

Fetes Recent Bride At Miscellaneous Party

Mrs. Harold Lanzen, the former Miss Oleta Ruckman, was honored last night with a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Veronica Lesch, 196 Penn avenue. Prizes in five hundred, which were presented to the recent bride, were won by Mrs. John Packham and Mrs. Herbert St. Clair. The hostess presented the guest of honor with an electrical gift.

The guests were seated at a long table for luncheon. Christmas appointments were used, and a miniature sleigh and reindeer centered the table. Small packages in the sleigh, when opened, directed Mrs. Lanzen to the hiding places of her various gifts.

The downtown stores are showing such attractive cases now that even those of us who aren't fortunate enough to have winter vacations will look forward more anxiously to the ones next summer with one of them on our closet shelf. . . . Some of the newest ladies' wardrobe suitcases come in brown pinstriped finish with rawhide trim—featuring a removable dress pack, small water-proof silk zipper pocket for make-up and the like, ribbon ties to hold things in place and a felt pocket for articles that scratch or mar. . . . There's also a handy matching hat and shoe pack which holds six pairs of shoes, several hats and has a pocket in the lid for hosiery. . . . A 21-inch week-end case and an 18-inch overnight bag complete this luggage ensemble.

A new feature in men's luggage is the two-suiter—which has hangers for suits, pockets for shoes, ties, shirts and hose—in fact, they say these packs will carry enough wearing apparel to last for two weeks. . . . For shorter jaunts, the man in your life would surely appreciate one of the new zipper gladstone bags—because it comes in a small convenient size and will carry one suit.

FINE cosmetics make appropriate gifts for many occasions—so they certainly can't be overlooked at the Christmas season. . . . A cosmetic manufacturer, whose preparations are selected to suit individual requirements and preferences, has done his items up in special gift packages for the holiday. . . . All of the boxes are light blue trimmed with shining gold—one containing powder has a little drawer filled with lipstick and creme rouge . . . a swirling box with two compartments comes with a daytime shade and an evening shade of powder. . . . And then there are all kinds of bath ensembles—dusting powder, cologne and bath salts in floral scents such as Gardenia, Carnation, Violet, Lilac and Lavender—and in more exotic, oriental fragrances such as Poppaea, Shiraz and Melody. . . . And the beauty make-up kits in this line are really something—made of genuine leather, lined with a washable material, they can be purchased in two sizes—a small one with a zipper closing, and a large one with snap fasteners and a handle—and they contain everything from makeup, cremes and lotions to tooth powder, nail file and tweezers. . . . Then there's a small nail polish package which contains two bottles of polish, one of polish remover, one of cuticle remover, an orangewood stick, emery boards and a nail-white pencil. . . . The nail kit of genuine leather, lined with peach colored silk, has all the items in the package plus another shade of polish, a bottle of cuticle oil, tweezers and a pair of manicure scissors.

Since nearly all the bread you buy nowadays is already sliced, a downtown store is showing a little gadget you'll appreciate more with each using. . . . It's a metal container which holds a slice of bread firmly in place while you run a knife down through the middle to cut it in half—thus getting just the right thickness for dainty sandwiches. . . . After you've tried this little slicer, you'll probably want to give several as Christmas gifts.

A FAMOUS woman cosmetologist has designed one of the smartest Christmas packages I've seen in a long time—two white cellophane bells lined with red have little perfumed clappers—one filled with "Night and Day" perfume and the other with "Blue Grass." . . . They're tied with red satin ribbon and a little sprig of winter berries.

For a different and timely Christmas gift, why not give one of those new Go Gay compacts.—Instead of the usual type of design on top, these have a complete calendar for 1940—and they come with white or black enamel or copper finish.

FOR THE CHRISTMAS STOCKING: A tube of the new Don Juan lipstick, which comes in a black case decorated with a white cameo—can be had in a wide variety of shades and stays on for hours. . . . Gay little cocktail aprons to be worn on company occasions in sheer printed materials. . . . Cellophane mat services trimmed in aqua, dubonnet and chartreuse will dress up any luncheon table in fine style.

MEET FRIDAY.

Helpers Circle Has Program at Church Meeting

A Christmas party was an event of last evening for 37 members and eight guests of the Helpers circle of the First Lutheran church at the parish house. Mrs. Paul Roethlesberger led the devotionals and gave a Christmas story and poem.

Mrs. Eugene Culler was in charge of the program, when Shirley Daum gave several readings. Miss Geraldine Brightbill played a group of accordion solos, and the program was concluded when Richard and Jack Selby sang two vocal duets.

The parish house was decorated in keeping with Christmas, and red and green predominated in the luncheon decorations. Officers for the past year served as hostesses for the affair. They included: Mrs. Culler, Mrs. Harvey Burghard, Mrs. Elmer Balliett, Mrs. Don Leuthner, Miss Georgiana Chidsey and Miss Cora Charles. The circle will meet again at the parish house on Jan. 2.

Gertrude Metcalf To Appear With Singers

Gertrude Metcalf, Chicago, Ill., contralto., who has sung on the concert stage in the west and the middle west, will be guest coloist for the annual Singers club concert to be given at the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium Dec. 12, it was announced today. Tickets for the production are now available from members of the club and at Tawse's drug store.

Familiar classical and semi-classical numbers will be presented by the club with Margaret B. Hall serving as accompanist. Incidental solos will be sung by a number of vocalists belonging to the organization. Edith Fletcher Jameson directs the group.

Annual Dance Planned By Alpha Pi Sigma

Plans for the annual dance which will be an event of Feb. 3 were discussed last night by members of Alpha Pi Sigma sorority when they met at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Officers, who will be elected Dec. 19, were nominated last night.

Bridge was played with prizes going to Mrs. Ralph Andregg and Miss Marie Kalbfleisch. Hostesses were Miss Ann Menrath and Mrs. John Shiplet. The committee for the Dec. 19 session is Mrs. Donald Snyder and Mrs. John Sprosty.

PLAY BRIDGE.

Mrs. Anastasia Nail entertained 12 members of the Chi Sigma Mother's club with a dessert-bridge party yesterday at her home, 1025 Park avenue west. The luncheon table was decorated in keeping with the Christmas theme and lighted with red tapers. The diversion was in play at three tables, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. Merton Holcombe and Mrs. O. G. Place. The group also had an exchange of Christmas gifts. Mrs. H. H. Clingan has invited the club members to her home on Vennum avenue for the next meeting, Jan. 10.

CHURCH CLASS MEETS.

Eighteen members of Class Thirteen, of the First Lutheran church, met in the Parish house Tuesday, with Mrs. Laura Gardner and Mrs. Elizabeth Guenther presiding as hostesses. Mrs. Birdie Finney was in charge of the devotional period and during the business session all officers of the class were re-elected to serve during the coming year. Mrs. Alice Brown entertained the group with a Christmas story, and refreshments were served by the hostess. The closing prayer service was conducted by Mrs. Susan Best.

TRAVELER SPEAKS AT DINNER MEETING

Tells A. A. U. W. Members Franklin Roosevelt, Walt Disney Most Talked of Americans In European Countries.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT and Walt Disney are the two American names on the tongues of nearly every European, Mrs. Margaret Johnson, children's page editor of the Cleveland Press, told members and guests of the American Association of University Women last night when the monthly dinner meeting was held at the Women's Club. Mrs. Johnson, who spent three months last spring in the northern European countries and the British Isles, told of her experiences and travels.

She touched only lightly on the political situation, but told her audience about the various important cities, and the educational systems in other countries which she was studying. In concluding her informal travelogue Mrs. Johnson pointed out the three major advantages of the United States. She stated that we have a superior educational system, a higher standard of living, and a democratic form of government.

The speaker particularly stressed the importance of impressing on our children the wonderful heritage of Americanism, and encouraging young people to take advantage of educational opportunities. Miss Ruth Dunham introduced the speaker who was presented by the Travel group of the branch, which is led by Mrs. George Ingram.

Preceding the talk Miss Fannie Lew Eiler presented David Weimer who played "Scherzo" by Mendelssohn, and "Sparks" by Moskowski. Joseph Pival, violinist, accompanied by Miss Thelma Reed, played "Meditation" from the opera "Thais" by Massenet, and "La Plus Que Lent" by Debussy.

Mrs. Merritt Giles, president, conducted a brief business meeting during which Mrs. Gordon Colby, dance chairman, announced plans for the dance which will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Jan. 27. Dinner was served at two large tables and several small ones, decorations being blue spruce tied with red ribbon, a miniature Santa Claus and sleigh, tiny china angels and silver bells.

Members of group four were the hostesses, and guests included Isabel Hoffman, Miss Edith Stuckey, Mrs. D. Dalton Deeds, Mrs. Robert DeHaven and Mrs. Lommatvsch.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 9 at the Women's Club with dinner being served at 6:15 p. m. The Literature group, headed by Mrs. E. C. Donnan will be in charge of the program. Members of group five will be the hostesses. Reservations of those expecting to be out-of-town over the holidays will be accepted anytime this week or next, Mrs. Charles Kuntz, social chairman, announced.

SCHEDULE MEETING.

The annual winter meeting of the Mansfield-Wooster club will be held Dec. 11 at the home of Miss Elizabeth Hainer, 62 Bentley avenuue, at 7:30 p. m. it was announced today. Dr. William Schreiber, assistant professor of German at Wooster, will speak to Wooster graduates, students, parents and their friends. The meeting will be in celebration of the rebuilding of the college after the fire in 1901.

Fifth Birthday Celebrated With Tea at Pavilion

Between the hours of 2 and 4 p. m. yesterday 60 members and guests of the Republican Women's council celebrated their fifth anniversary at the Prospect Park pavilion. Tea was served at small tables after which bridge and five hundred were played. Prizes went to Mrs. Grace Sanborn, Mrs. Frank Harpster, Mrs. J. E. Esterline and Mrs. M. A. DeWeese.

Members of the arrangement committee were Mrs. Opal Stentz, chairman, Mrs. Corrine Flemming, Mrs. Roy Vaughn, Mrs. Velma Darling, Mrs. H. H. Schettler, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mrs. R. C. Klopfenstine, Mrs. Earl Ports, Mrs. George Fox and Mrs. D. L. Maxwell.

Plans were made to hold the next meeting at the park pavilion with a covered-dish dinner on Dec. 27. Mrs. Esterline is in charge. The buffet table was decorated with candles, autumnal flowers and a birthday cake.

Elect Class Officers At Tuesday Session

Officers were elected Tuesday when Mrs. Benton Doolittle, North Main street road, entertained 30 members and guests of the Tabitha class of the First Lutheran church. Mrs. Dorothy Turner is the new president. She will be assisted by Mrs. Mabel Niman, vice-president, and Mrs. Esther Carver, secretary.

Miss Mary Daubenspeck, accompanied by Elsie Ireland, sang, and Mrs. W. C. B. Harris gave a Christmas story. Mrs. Doolittle was assisted by Mrs. Lucille Walters and Mrs. Naomi Hawkins.

HAS PARTY.

Miss Leona Young entertained with a kitchen shower Monday night in honor of Mrs. Frank Cypris, the former Miss Florence Banks. A color scheme of red, black and white was used, and bridge was played. Miniature kitchen sets marked each place at the refreshment table.

Justice Example For Youth

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The late Justice Pierce Butler, who died a couple of weeks ago, stands as a model to every American boy determined to succeed against all odds. He was the real Horatio Alger type who takes the handicaps in his strides, not knowing the meaning of the word failure.

He once said there should be no legislation which would hamper any poor boy who was making his way to the top. So whether you disagreed with some of his Supreme Court decisions as being too conservative, back of them was his respect for the rugged individualist, the boy who makes his way.

His social and economic philosophy did not prevent recognition of his sincerity and his indomitable character. Pierce Butler was actually born in a log cabin, and was one of the few leaders, still active in American life, able to boast of that distinction.

So many young men write to this column that they have absolutely no chance in life, that the fates have turned thumbs down on them from the beginning. They want better jobs, they want to earn more money and they'd like to marry the one and only girl, if they could only make a home for her. But what can be done on wages that barely keep body and soul together?

I would advise such discouraged young men to study the story of Pierce Butler. It's mighty encouraging to any boy with the ambition to secure an education and forge ahead. After doing the chores on his father's farm, he entered Carlton College, Minnesota, at fifteen years of age, and he rustled the milk cans for a local dairy to pay his college expenses.

And of course he married the one and only girl, Annie Cronin of St. Paul. They had eight children. Justice Butler realized that the greatest insurance for happiness is in the home. The glamour of Washington never side-tracked him. One felt that the Butler home was a haven, an anchorage in a cockeyed world.

So the Minnesota farm boy, after attaining the nation's highest judicial post, enjoyed a little venture of slipping back to the soil and renewing his farm contacts. He bought a 538-acre farm in Maryland, forty miles from Washington, and specialized in raising pure-bred Hereford cattle. Doubtless, it recalled those old days when he got up long before light, rode horseback to the nearest town to get his grade school education, and did his farm chores before and after going to school.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, December 7.

Excepting for social, domestic, sentimental or artistic interests, this may be an involved and difficult day, judging by the ruling transits. In purely personal engagements things may be lively and intriguing, but in more practical obligations there may be deep and difficult undercurrents to negotiate with shrewdness, tact and keen insight. Restraint and amiability also are in order lest impetuosity, rash judgments and bad manners complicate peculiar situations. Personal astuteness and constructive ideas may save the day.

Those whose birthday it is may turn a troublesome year into profit, security and fair fortune by individual restraints, calm deportment, and constructive rather than tumultous and destructive thinking, when confronted by peculiar, deep-rooted or chaotic situations. Social, domestic and affectional affiliations may offer relaxation and inspiration.

A child born on this day, while usually gentle, genial, good-natured and affectionate, may be given to extremes of temper.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Edith sank back in her seat.

"Oh! of course," she said. "I'm so sorry! I was stupid not to realize the need for caution."

"There's no harm done," Dicky said briskly. "I suppose old Lil is scanning the street to see if she can see anybody suspicious. Let's have a look on our own hook."

All three of us peered through the windows of the armored car, and simultaneously Edith and I exclaimed, "Oh! look!" But Dicky's contribution was more picturesque.

"Pipe those two birds in the doorway of the tobacco shop!" he said.

"I've already 'piped' them," I told him.

"What dreadful men!" Edith said nervously. "They look more like what you expect gangsters to be than that man in the cafe."

"These are the roughnecks who do the strong-arm work," Dicky said. "The man in the cafe was a bit higher-up, although not so many rounds of the ladder above at that."

I shivered a bit as I peered through the window at the dark, squat, muscular men with thick, broad shoulders and long, gorilla-like arms, who lounged in the doorway of the tobacco shop. Their eyes were darting from one of our cars to the other. Suddenly, evidently sensing danger, they abandoned their quest and moved away as unobtrusively as it was possible for two such conspicuous figures to move.

Lillian was on the ground before they had taken more than a few steps, and her husband, descending quickly behind her, was frowning, apparently in disapproval of the way she disregarded danger. But she disregarded him as she rushed to the car following ours, and spoke to the four men sitting in it. Two of them immediately alighted and darted into the nearest doorway from which they peered at the fugitives until they had turned the corner. Then they left their doorway and walked toward the corner, while Lillian came over to our car and spoke through the window which Dicky opened.

Safe to Go Now.

"I think it's safe now, Ede, for you to go into the hotel," she said. "Harry and a guard will go with you. But hurry as fast as you can."

"I won't be five minutes," Edith promised, and was out of the car before Dicky could get down to help her.

"What will happen to the strong-arm men?" I asked Lillian.

"They will be thoroughly tailed until your father's men get a chance to nab them," she said. "Then they'll have a little interrogative session at the hideout, and afterward join their buddies, male and female, in nice, roomy cells. It will be easy for your father's men to pick them up, as I'll wager dollars to doughnuts, mit holes, that they want no truck with the city police. Each of 'em's loaded for bear, or I miss my guess, and they probably face fourth offender terms. Move over, old dear! I'll climb in and keep you company until Ede gets back."

We made way for her with alacrity, and I put another question.

"The other two men in the car following us are coming along with us as you originally scheduled?"

Taking No Chances.

"Yes," she replied emphatically, "although it probably is a useless precaution. I imagine this last performance is the last wriggle of the rattlesnake's tail after its head is cut off. But I'm not taking any chances, and I don't mind telling you I'll feel easier in what passes for my mind when Ede is finally landed in sanctuary at the farmhouse. In gang parlance, the lady is a 'squealer.'

She did not need to add anything to her sentence. My imagination supplied all possible details, and I was furious at myself for the shiver which rippled over me, and which I could not conceal. Dicky slipped his arm around me and spoke to Lillian impatiently.

"For the love of your great grandmother, Lil, cut out the horrors! Madge is getting a sweet case of jitters. Nothing more's going to happen anyway."

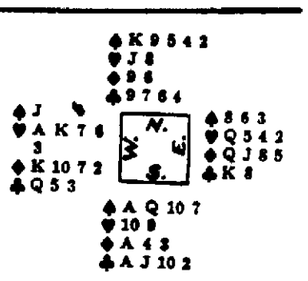
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP HIM GUESSING

Befuddling your opponent, so that he has to guess and with a good reasonable chance to guess wrong, is one of the attributes of fine bridge. Many a time careful use of such tactics can enable you to make a contract which otherwise would be far beyond the bounds of possibility.



(Dealer: South. North - South vulnerable.)

Edward Kenton, famous Knickerbocker Whist club campaigner, used two rather fancy plays to make the contract on this deal, one which he called a "pseudo-end play" and the other a "semi-end play." He was in 4-Spades, having bid 1-Spade himself, North 2-Spades, he 3-Diamonds as a mild semi-psychic slam try, North 3-Spades and he 4-Spades.

Off-hand, he is destined to lose two tricks in hearts, one in diamonds and one in clubs, but he made his contract just the same. West took the heart king and ace and switched to the spade jack to the ace. Two more spades settled the opposition, then the club 9 was covered by the king and ace. On the seventh trick came the "pseudo-end play," Mr. Kenton leading the club 10. West, believing his partner might have the jack, ducked. This made it possible to throw West into the lead then with the club jack to the queen.

West was on the spot. He was afraid to lead from his diamond king into a possible ace - queen, and so counted on South for another heart. He therefore led the heart 6, on which a diamond was discarded from the dummy, the trick being ruffed with the spade queen. Followed them the diamond ace, a diamond ruff, the spade king and a club.

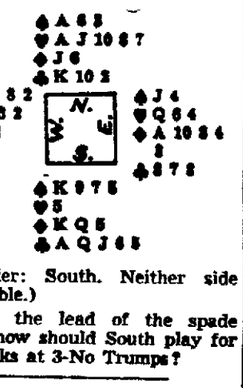
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After the lead of the spade deuce, how should South play for overtricks at 3-No Trumps?

In the 18th century, in France, every window was taxed.

Cauliflower Tasty Appetizer

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

HOW ABOUT a raw accompaniment with the pre-dinner drink, which might well be spiced tomato juice?

When next you have guests to dinner, do this: Divide a plump, raw cauliflower into flowerettes, each with its own little stem. Make a mixture of mayonnaise, cayenne pepper, grated onion, curry powder and paprika, blending the flavors so that none predominates. Place this in a bowl. Put the bowl on a large serving plate and surround with the cauliflower flowerettes. Each guest dunks his own.

For an easy-to-make soup, but an interesting one, open as many cans of cream of asparagus as needed. Add grated nutmeg to taste and serve with croutons.

Right now is the time for oyster loaf, and right here is a swell recipe for it. It takes 36 oysters, salt, cayenne papper, grated nutmeg, juice of a lemon, two tablespoons bread crumbs (rolled fine), teaspoon meat extract, tablespoon tarragon vinegar, two beaten eggs, two tablespoons thick cream, one can concentrated cream of celery soup and one cup cooked celery. Cut the oysters in halves and place in sauce pan with one-half cup of oyster liquid. Add the salt, red pepper and a pinch of grated nutmeg, lemon juice, bread crumbs, meat extract and vinegar. Bring to a boil and remove from fire. Stir in beaten eggs and cream. Butter a mold and dust the sides with bread crumbs. Put in the mixture, covering the mold with buttered paper, and seal tightly. Steam for one and one-half hours. Turn out and serve with a celery sauce made by combining the heated can of celery soup with the cooked celery. Dee-licious!

Spiced Apple Souffle is a good wind-up to a party dinner. It is concocted with the aid of one-third cup quick-cooking tapioca, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, two cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice, one cup grated raw apple, three egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored, and three egg whites. Combine tapioca, sugar, salt and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water, bring to scalding point (allow three to five minutes), and cook for five minutes, stirring frequently. Add butter, spices, lemon juice and apple. Cool slightly while beating eggs. Add egg yolks and mix well. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 to 60 minutes or until souffle is firm. Serve hot, with whipped cream. Serves eight.

Activities of Social Clubs

Miss Mildred Ohler, 150 Grace street, was hostess last night to members of the U-Name-It club when Mrs. Russell Imdorf was feted with a personal shower. The honoree was a winner of a prize in cootie, and she also received the awards won by Miss Elizabeth Booz and Mrs. Jacob Ruponvic. Luncheon was served at a long table. The next meeting will be held Dec. 20 with Miss Elizabeth Schadek, East First street.

* * *

Mrs. Louis Zollars was hostess for a meeting of the Social Crochet club yesterday afternoon at her home, 38 Stewart avenue. The members had a gift exchange, and Christmas appointments were used when refreshments were served. On Jan. 4, Mrs. Jacob Berlo will entertain the group at her home, 345 South Diamond street.

* * *

Mrs. W. E. Antrican was a guest of the Valencia club last evening, when that group met at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Aungst on South Diamond street. Bridge was in play at two tables, with prizes going to Mrs Roy Tressel and Mrs. Edward Longsdorf. Later the hostess served refreshments at the small tables. The club members are planning to have a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. W. F. McFadden on the Olivesburg road on Dec. 19.

Traction Man Never Thought Medicine Could Help So Much

Feels so much better since taking Vendol and getting relief from constipation, can now eat most anything without having sour stomach, acid dyspepsia, gas cramps, and other troubles.

MR. WILLIBER MOOMEY

"I've gone through so much suffering from troubles in my stomach and other symptoms brought on by constipation, and had been disappointed so many times seeking relief, that I didn't really believe a medicine could possibly do as much good as Vendol has done for me," says Mr. Williber Moomey, of 887 South Avenue, Toledo, Ohio, a reliable and highly esteemed employe of the Community Traction Co.

"In this constipated condition I hardly knew what it was to eat a meal without suffering soon afterwards from sour stomach, acid dyspepsia, cramps, and a choking feeling in my throat. Often I'd rift up little bits of undigested food and a hot, sour liquid rise up in my throat and sometimes my clothes would feel tight from the gas in my stomach.

"I had pains in the muscles of my arms, shoulders, back, and down through my limbs that were really awful at times.

"I read a lot about how Vendol was helping people around here, and I know several who had taken it and said it was fine, so I decided to try it, along with the Vendol laxative tablets, and I'm happy that I did, as it is about the best medicine I ever tried.

"Vendol gave grand relief from my constipation; then it seemed my other troubles grew less, so I kept taking Vendol and the tablets, and now I enjoy my meals like I should without going through all that discomfort and suffering as I did before. I feel fine all the time and never miss a chance to advise my friends to take Vendol."

Make up your mind now to begin taking Vendol and see for yourself what it will do. Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I'll explain all about my grand medicine and tell you honestly what you may expect it to do for you. Come today if possible.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

THEY WERE a small group in the settlement house dining room where a piano had been placed for rehearsal of the carols.

Fabienne consulted a card in her hand and looked up at the children with an encouraged smile. "The four tallest girls and the four tallest boys will stand over here to the right," she said, leading them to their positions. "The boys in back of the girls. Then Luigi, you and Ingaborg, Lee and Colleen will stand in the front row. That's right!"

Twelve foreign faces beamed at her.

"Now you look just like the picture that I showed you in the Christmas Carol book!" And indeed they would, with the simple costumes Miss Winters was making out of donations for them—long bright woolen scarfs to wrap around their throats and long coats. Put a lantern in little Luigi's hand and the picture would come to life.

"Teacher," Colleen Flaherty asked shyly, "What's the lantern for?"

"Oh, didn't I tell you about that? Well, you see the first little boys and girls who went out on Christmas Eve to spread good cheer with their carols did not have bright street lights, so they had to have a lantern to show the way from house to house over the soft snow."

"Were they cold standing in the snow?" The wistful voice of Lars, the tallest of the boys wanted to know. Fabienne's heart smote her. She knew what cold meant to this fatherless boy who lived in a miserable, unheated tenement. She said gently, "No Lars, they weren't cold any more than we're going to be cold. Their hearts were light and happy because they were singing Christmas hymns of joy to make others happy. The way we're going to be."

But were they? These poor little mites. There'd be toys and candy and fruit for them at the settlement house, but where was that Christmas joy she was painting in their eager imaginations? Cold tenements. Wretchedness and poverety and dirt and sickness was their lot.

For her there would be the holiday of fables. The yule log and groaning board. The big tree in the library of Willoughby hall. The excitement of voices calling cheery greetings, the gaily colored ribbons and the mass of greens. The Christmas punch and the candlelit table. The beautiful gowns and the Christmas ball.

She cleared her throat. "I can't tell you any more stories now. Dr. Mallory will be down in a minute and we want to be in our places all ready to sing when he comes in. Let's surprise him."

She took her place at the piano and struck cord for pitch. Twelve childish voices opened the song. Bill had come in.

Bill dismissed the children and drew a chair up beside hers where she sat at the piano.

He said "You're a softie."

"Smile when you say that," she said with simulated belligerency. "What gave you that idea?"

"Your face," he said, moving his eyes over it with serious eyes. "I thought it was immobile when first I saw you."

"It's the same face," she told him, wishing she could escape. If he looked at her often that way, he'd read something of her admiration—yes, that was the way she put it to herself—in her eyes.

"No." He shook his head. "It's not the same face, or the same girl, at all. I was watching you from the gallery." They were rehearsing in the little theater. "And I saw your thoughts written all over your face when the Anderson boy asked you if they'd be cold standing in the snow."

"Well," she said staunchly, "aren't you sorry for these children? Who wouldn't be?"

"Sure I'm sorry for them. But not about Christmas. I'm sorry for the people who think of Christmas in terms of comfort and expensive presents and big dances."

As if he had surprised her thoughts, Fabienne looked at him guiltily. "What's wrong with that?" she asked.

"There's nothing wrong with it, except that it isn't the real thing about Christmas. It's like looking at a rhinestone and being satisfied with it when there's a star to be touched."

"You think these children touch stars?"

"Yes," he said simply.

"How?" She had to ask it.

"They get something you can't wrap up in tissue paper. Something the best of shops can't sell you because there is no price on it."

"An orange, a bag of candy," she said, "and a Christmas tree in a settlement house."

"Fabienne, Fabienne, what a stupid little girl you are!" It was the first time he had called her by her name. "Do you think they get excited about an orange? Most of them snitch them every day. Or a Christmas tree? Yes, they do. But it's because it's a symbol of the whole spirit of the holiday that lifts them out of their lives. Now, I'm going to sound like a preacher."

"Go on," she said.

"It's a lift that doesn't disappear. With a lot of them it will. Because many of them are destined to finish their lives in poverty and ignorance. But some of them will always know what Christmas stands for. Do you know what it stands for, Fabienne?"

She shook her head.

"For hope, child. It's the birthday of Jesus Christ. No man can ever think of Him without thinking of hope. The little stable in Bethlehem. The star that guided the wise men. Everyone of these kids knows about that. It's something that belongs to everyone of them. Something that they sense as a greater gift than the orange or the bag of candy. That's why the Christmas spirit is something complete and beautiful. Can you be sorry for them when they have that? Or can you be sorry for the people who haven't?"

"For both," she said in a still voice. "But these children—"

"When they're men and women, they'll remember what they felt when they were children. The stable in Bethlehem and what it stands for, the feeling that thrills these young hearts when they sing the carols will always be there."

She held out her hand to him and said, "Thanks for telling me, Bill. Telling me something I should have known. Only, you see I'm not religious."

"You're a lot of things you don't even know about," he said cryptically. "Including a darn good disciplinarian. You've done a mighty good job on this project. Going to be around Christmas to hear the fruits of your labor?"

"I'm taking the nine o'clock train to Maryland. I'll hear the carols and rush to the station. I'll be in by two. And two o'clock is practically the shank of the evening in my part of the world. You staying in New York?"

"Yeah. A doctor can't run away for holidays. But don't you worry about me. Ellen's taking pity on me. Wish you were going to be here, too."

Hmmmm. She didn't! Not to see Bill and Ellen laughing over the same things, sharing the same experiences. She had never seen them together except at the settlement house, and she didn't want to.

Give her Maryland and the gaiety and music and Nicky and all the people she could share experiences with.

But she was not to spend that Christmas at Willoughby hall.

The telegram came at six o'clock, when she was winding a bright red scarf around Patsy O'Brien's neck.

She read it, swallowed the forlornness that swept over her and thrust it into her skirt pocket. No need to tell anybody that she wasn't going to Maryland because Aunt Edna's sister had died and Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna were already on their way to St. Louis.

Fabienne Seymour didn't want anybody to be sorry for her because she had no place to go on Christmas.

Can You Spare a Stamp? That's New In Rackets Here

The new routine for beggars is simple. The mendicant arms himself with a grimy letter, addressed to some far city—but minus a stamp.

He takes his position in front of a postoffice and when he sees a "customer" headed for the postoffice he approaches with a story about being a stranger in town—and can the "gentleman spare a 3-cent stamp?"

The psychology of the panhandling stunt reaps dividends, since most passersby don't have a pocketful of pennies. The average "touch" is said to range from a nickel to a dollar.

Because moths fly at night and are usually not seen, few people realize that there are nine times as many moth species as butterflies.

Death or Capture Face Tiger Woman In Next 48 Hours

AUTHORITIES WITHOUT CLUE ON COLD TRAIL

Officials Say Exposure Will Bring Collapse If Winnie Not Found Soon.

(By Central Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Authorities admitted today they were completely without clues in the hunt for Winnie Ruth Judd, insane murderess. They said that unless she gave up or was captured before nightfall she could not survive another 24 hours in the open.

The 34-year-old blond "Tiger Woman" was in frail health when she walked out of the state asylum for the insane Sunday night. She has an arrested case of tuberculosis. After returning from her first escape six weeks ago she suffered a collapse and had not fully recovered.

She was gone for a week in her first escape but authorities did not believe she could survive that long, in her present condition as a hunted woman sleeping in the open and in sheds, and eating only what little food she could snatch from unguarded kitchens.

There was also the possibility she had already committed suicide. Asylum attendants were certain she took a straight-edge razor with her in her flight; one was missing from the hospital barber shop where she often worked. She was reported to have said in a note that she would rather die than return to the asylum and what she fancied to be persecution.

Trails Turned Cold.

Although she had only a half hour's start when she unlocked a door of the asylum Sunday night and walked out, authorities said they were in the same fix as the two bloodhounds brought from the state penitentiary and put sniffing on Winnie Ruth's trail. The hounds found every trail ran cold and, fagged out, they were sent back to the penitentiary.

The best of the hundreds of tips that poured in was the report of a colored farmhand, John Atkin, who saw a bedraggled woman walking along a dusty desert road outside the city limits toward Camelback mountain, a landmark offering rocky hideaways.

She fitted Mrs. Judd's description and carried a bundle similar to the one the murderess took on her flight. Deputies were searching the mountain.

ILLNESS FATAL TO MISS TAYLOR

Services for Richland Native Set for Friday Afternoon.

Miss Nellie Taylor, 18 Burnese avenue, a Richland county native, died Tuesday afternoon at the home of George Loesch, 316 North Townview circle, where she had lived, after a brief illness.

Miss Taylor was born in Springfield township and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a member of the First Christian church and the Mothers Home circle.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday in charge of Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

RITES THURSDAY

Body of C. H. Williams Returned to Bucyrus for Burial.

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home for Clark H. Williams, 54, former Bucyrus resident who died Tuesday in Canton. Rev. David Mumford, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will officiate and burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Born in Crawford county, Mr. Williams had lived in Canton for the past 25 years. He is survived by his wife, Margaret; five brothers, Melvin of Bucyrus, Harry of Toledo, John of Waco, Texas, Samuel of Scio, and Ed of Canton, and three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Pfleiderer of Sandusky, Miss Emma Williams and Mrs. Dale Gardner, both of Bucyrus.

Now that the robes for the Senior High a cappella choir have been ordered, the problem arises as to where to put them. A Le-Moine Derr, director of the choir, had difficulty in getting them but now that they are expected soon, he's having almost as much trouble finding a place to store them. School officials haven't been able to locate a satisfactory storage room and may have to build a large cupboard somewhere in the building.

Naming of a city street dedicated by council last night caused no little comment and brought forth verbal explosions long before Clerk William J. Beer had completed reading the measure. The name proposed was Disposal Plant drive which the city legislators quickly changed to Plant drive after some discussion on whether it should be tagged "Alfalfa avenue," after Councilman George (Alfalfa) Kyle, who has suggested that the city utilize the plant property to raise alfalfa.

While the Christmas Health Seal sale is being conducted almost entirely by mail this year, a group of women from the American Legion auxiliary is doing a land office business in the postoffice. The auxiliary agreed to "picket" the postoffice every day from now until Christmas to sell the tiny seals to people coming in to mail packages and letters, and so far they have done a big business, according to Mrs. Robert Jones who is in charge of the auxiliary workers. More than 75 women of the group have agreed to work in half day shifts. The funds from the sale finance the county's free tuberculosis clinics.

The reacion of movie audiences to minor "boners" was felt last night at the Community Players' production "The Night of January 16" at Senior High school. The audience was literally eating up the testimony and there was a hush when the prosecuting attorney pushed a gun toward a witness and said: Did you ever see this .32 calibre gun before?" Away back in the 20th row a man specator said in a loud whisper, "The prosecutor doesn't know his guns—that's a .22 caliber target pistol!" And so it was.

SEES PEACE HOPE

Senator Clark Optimistic But Hits at War Profits.

CINCINNATI, O.—(INS)—U. S. Sen. Bennett C. Clark, Missouri Democrat, still believes America can stay out of the European conflict despite the fact the neutrality act now permits sale of munitions and war supplies on a cash and carry basis.

Clark, prominent isolationist who opposed repeal of the arms embargo provision of the act, expressed that opinion last night in a speech at the University of Cincinnati.

"I believe we can stay out," the senator declared. "However, a dangerous course is to essay to remain out of the actual conflict, make every penny we can out of the conflict and let nature take its course. That course leads surely to war."

The Missourian warned that the possibility of the establishment of a dictatorship in America would become real if the nation became involved in the Europea.: conflict.

BURTON SPENT $69,761

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Re-election costs of Mayor Harold H. Burton were listed today with the board of elections at $69,761, compared to $54,769 for his opponent, John E. O'Donnell. Burton's campaign committee spent $39,473 in the primaries and $30,288 in the November election.

COUNCIL OKAYS 13 FUND SHIFTS

Transfers and Appropriations for $19,350 Keep Solons Busy at Session.

City council went in for transfer of funds and supplemental appropriations on wholesale scale at its last regular session of the year last night.

Acting to defray departmental expenditures for the balance of the year, council authorized 13 shifts in the general fund involving the transfer of $8,695 while 10 appropriations totaled $19,350.

Chief among the appropriations made were three amounts totaling $15,300, all of which is to be used for relief purposes. Two appropriations, $4,500 from the water works and $3,800 from the general fund were authorized for the retirement of a note issued in February against anticipated sales tax receipts.

Another $7,000 was earmarked for payment of hospital bills for the care of indigent patients confined in General hospital during December.

In addition council also dedicated a strip of land from Park avenue east to the garbage disposal plant that set the stage for a $7,700 WPA paving project.

Extending the parking ban, it authorized a "no parking" zone on Willis avenue between East Fourth street and East Temple court. The restriction had been requested by property owners.

Two claims for damages were ordered paid, both for damages to property as the result of sewers backing up in basements. One was for $35 to Mrs. Mary A. Johnson and the other for $10.50 was ordered paid to Mrs. Dan O'Connell.

AUDIENCE HAS SWELL TIME AS PLAYERS STAGE COURT DRAMA

By JANE WILLIAMS

A jury of 12 prominent Mansfield men and women brought in a verdict of "guilty" last night against beautiful Karen Andre, for the murder of Loren Faulkner, after deliberating only three minutes.

The verdict was unpopular with the audience, the judge thought it "stank" and ordered the names of the jurors stricken from the jury role for five years, the defendant was all cut up about it—but everyone had a swell time at "The Night of January 16," which the Community Players presented last night at Senior High school.

About 750 persons witnessed it and like all murder trial audiences, everybody in it had loads of fun except the principal actors. The play is one of those courtroom dramas in which the story unfolds as each witness testifies. The audience got right into the spirit of the thing from the beginning when 12 jurors were called from a panel selected from the audience, and the witnesses popped up unexpectedly in the auditorium.

The story is frankly that of Ivor Krueger, the Swedish match king, who was supposed to have committed suicide by leaping from an airplane, but whom many of his financial victims believed had faked the suicide and had sought sanctuary in South America.

In the play a beautiful woman is charged with his murder while the defense attempts to show it was suicide. A dramatic twist comes into the trial when a notorious gangster makes his appearance and testifies that the financial wizard had "planted" the suuicide when he planned to flee to South America, that the body of a slain gangster had been used for the supposed Faulkner body and that the latter had actually been murdered after the "suicide" by his father-in-law.

A succession of witnesses tell the story and from their story the jury made its decision from the evidence presented. Kochenderfer as foreman of the jury, solemnly announced "guilty"—and the jury was promtly berated by the judge for its stupidity.

The whole show was excellently cast and well directed by Mrs. E. K. Bacon, Community Players director. Two "veterans" of the Players, Ben Goodenough and Ferd Loykovich, were the attorneys for the state and the defense, respectively, and did a good job, although they failed to yell and brow beat witnesses in the time-honored courtroom custom.

Three newcomers in character roles did surprisingly good work, each making a clear cut cameo of the character. They were Louis Meisse, who showed professional poise and a sureness in the emotional role of the Swedish secretary; Mabel Owen Ward as the Mae-Westish wife of the slain gangster; and Mrs. Sherman Glessner as the Swedish maid. Betty Osbun, who is seen frequently in community plays, contributed another good character bit as the colored charwoman.

Another newcomer to the Players who will be an addition is Mrs. Jack Berno, who played the role of Karen Andre, the accused woman. Attractive and with considerable poise and restraint, she adds a good voice to natural talent. Her role was closely associated with that of Ruhland Isaly as the gangster. Isaly has appeared in many community plays, but never in a better performance than that of last night.

Richard Nixon as the father-in-law of the slain man, and Mrs. Ben Goodenough as the youthful widow, must also come in for special commendation.

Other witnesses, all of them doing creditable work, were Herbert Slough as the "dumb cop," Dorothea Grimes as a handwriting expert, Henry Neidhamer as the private investigator, and Kenneth Mabee as the doctor. Other roles were played by Daniel Reese as the judge; LaVerne Gunder as the clerk of courts, Robert Parker as the bailiff and Jane Bacon as the prison matron.

SAYS 'DOMESTIC CRISIS' WILL BE TOPIC OF TALK

(By United Press)

MINNEAPOLIS — District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York City makes his first formal speech tonight in his campaign for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination and will state his views on at least two major issues —agriculture and governmental policies.

He will arrive here this morning and will speak tonight at the Minneapolis auditorium at a meeting sponsored by the Minnesota Republican Central committee. The speech will be carried on a nationwide radio hook-up at 10 p. m. (Mansfield time).

Republicans from the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota will attend the meeting. Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota will introduce Dewey.

Before his departure from New York City yesterday Dewey said he would confine his speech to what he called "the domestic crisis" and would not express himself on the interntional situation. He said he would discuss agriculture and the fundamental theories on which he considers both governmental policy and legislation should be based.

He said he considered the most important problem before the American people to be clarification of fundamental issues in the forthcoming campaign. It is up to the people, he said, to determine in what direction they want the country to go and whether it had been going in that direction in the last seven years.

Dewey Names Advisers.

Dewey announced his candidacy last week. His entry into the race brought to four the number seeking the Republican nomination. The others are Senators Arthur H. Vandenburg of Michigan, Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. In contrast no presidential candidates have declared themselves in the Democratic ranks and the picture is expected to remain incomplete until President Roosevelt announces whether he will run for a third term.

NAMED 4TH TIME

J. C. Friday Re-elected Head of Fish and Game Group.

John C. Friday was re-elected president of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association for the fourth consecutive year at the annual election of officers last evening at North Lake park pavilion.

Other officers named were Eddie Felton, vice president; John Catlett, re-elected secretary; Howard Hyatt, re-elected treasurer; Roscoe McGinty, re-elected membership secretary; Joe R. Heilman, director of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, and William Miller, license secretary.

The association also adopted several resolutions, including a proposal to open the Charles Mill dam area south of U. S. Route 30, for duck hunting and fishing as soon as the state acquires jurisdiction over the territory, and also recomemnded that the squirrel hunting season be closed during 1940 and 1941.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Doc Has Only Admiration For Father Divine But He's No Piker, Either

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Doc Robinson of Moscow, Ida., who says he talked with God and got rich in almost no time, is not perturbed by insinuations that he came by his title by working as clerk in a Moscow drug store. To such canards he replies that he got a D.D. from the College of Divine Metaphysics of Indianapolis and a Ph.D. from Voltaire university of Paris, France. But that's nothing. The doc's religious philosophy, known as psychiana, on sale at $20 for the eleven-months course, payable in easy installments, has a wider charter, so he says, than the University of Idaho. He says the university can't give Ph.D.'s, but that he can. If he wanted to he could append to his own name enough letters to spell antitotalitarianism. But he doesn't want to. Doc is title enough for him.

Nor is he envious of other current operators in the god business. His trade is growing, and the others merely amuse him, except when they crib his stuff. And, as he himself said in discussing a rival whom he regards as a rather harmless imposter, there is little that the authorities can do to interfere with the god business if a man is ordinarily prudent and knows the laws.

A number of smart individuals have canvassed the opportunities and the legal conditions and have discovered that almost any goblin cult called a religion may enjoy immunity from intrusion, molestation and most taxes. Otherwise you would have religions persecution in a free country, and public opinion would never stand for that.

The deadliest defect in religious promotions is sex. The doc's own stuff, as he calls it, cannot be challenged on such grounds, because psychiana does not counsel sexual impurity—a wise provision. And, rather oddly, the more prominent competing spiritualisms of the present hour require the faithful to forego sex altogether. On the other hand, this trend is not as odd as it may seem.

In other years ephemeral movements were led by lively roosters who were after the money, to be sure, but carried on sidelines which got them into trouble with the law.

So a wise god man of today, scanning the difficulties of those who went before, forfends interference by adjuring his followers to put such thoughts away. Moreover, young people are not likely to have money or to be desperate for faith and hope.

So the joiners are mostly subdued persons beyond middle age, with some accumulation or inheritance of wealth, perhaps the insurance of a departed spouse, to toss upon the drum while in the throes. It works out very nicely.

As every businessman should, the doc knows the laws pertaining to his line, and, again, as every alert businessman should, he keeps posted on the activities and the type of goods handled by other operators in the same field. Of Father Divine, the colored God man, he spoke in a tone of professional admiration.

"That fellow," he said, "is the king pin of the mail. But I don't get his stuff. I just don't get it at all."

You will note that he spoke of the others as "them." He didn't say "us all." He doesn't regard himself as one of "them." He is the genuine God man, the one who talked with God, "actually and literally," as his advertisements say, whereas of the others the best that can be said is that they are mistaken.

Some of them may sincerely believe that they have talked with God, that they are God's exclusive messengers, or, ineed, that they are God. But the joke is on them and their followers, and it would be worth something to see the look on the faces of the deluded when they wake up dead and discover that they went milling after false gods and donated their savings, jewelry and real estate as "love gifts" to impostors.

The Doc is jovial, but he is no victim of gentle sentiment in dealing with disciples who are deadbeats or slow pay. He will not be gypped by gyps. Not the Doc.

Last February a delinquent Psychiana student got a letter from a collection agency in Wilmington, Del., which said:

"Dear Madam: The school has just reported your payment of $3.50, which reduces this balance to $5. We want that balance no later than March 4. Frankly, it is immaterial whether you settle with us or with the school's attorney, but a lawsuit will mean both unpleasantness and expense to you. For your own protection, therefore, have the balance here by the date mentioned."

That was telling her where to get off. And if the manner sounds uncharitable and not quite divine, after all, Psychiana is Doc Robinson's own God stuff. He got it up. It is his property, and he turns delinquents over to the agency in the routine course of business, as any sound businessman would.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The Great Big Man Who Wasn't There was putting on the scarecrow's pants.

He had been putting them on all morning, and he was due to put them on some more in the afternoon. His name, when he's around, is Vincent Price, but he wasn't there again today so I want you to meet instead a medium-sized man named John Fulton who specializes in disappearing acts.

Making Vincent Price disappear is a man-sized job, because Price is six feet five if he's a day and he's equipped with full-back shoulders. John Fulton, however, is not one to be stumped by size. He knows the answers, even when same are invisible. That's why he is credited for "special effects" in pictures like "The Invisible Man Returns," in which Price, the star, for the most part does not appear even as the shadow of himself.

For all his bulk, Price presents no problem in those scenes wherein, made invisible by a drug, he wanders through the scenery stark-naked. Here his voice does all the work. But even an invisible man gets chilly these autumn nights, and a scarecrow's pants will do to comfort invisible gooseflesh.

To dress an invisible man convincingly requires considerable photographic legerdemain. Price is totally encased in form-fitting black cloth, and he works against a backdrop of the same black. He stands beside the scarecrow, never in front of it, and his black hand reaches out to grasp the trousers by handy black tabs sewed to the belt. When photographed, black against black isn't there except in faint outline, which is later removed in the Fulton workshop where also the scenery is inserted. The effect on the screen is as desired: a moving picture of nobody, in a desolate field, putting on a scarecrow's clothes.

For this and other trickery in the completed film, approximately 300,000 individual frames of movie film are being treated by hand, six workers in two shifts inking out Price and photographing his inky absence so that further magic may proceed.

Somewhere in the course of Fulton's detailed explanation of the business I had to fall back on what I hope was intelligent, appreciative nodding. "I see—um—yes, I see."

Fulton warmed up to his present task by handling the first "Invisible Man" in 1933, but before that he had worked on "The Big Parade," "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and other films. He has made Eliza, a real girl, cross a miniature photographed river full of miniature ice, and he has "reduced" real people and placed them in small bottles whence a scientist could extract them with pincers—the latter a feat for "The Bride of Frankenstein." It gives you an idea of his gay skullduggery.

I don't know that it means anything, but when he stepped in his car — to go back to the scarecrow's pants—I noticed it was one of those models with an invisible running board.

Death or Capture Face Tiger Woman In Next 48 Hours

AUTHORITIES WITHOUT CLUE ON COLD TRAIL

Officials Say Exposure Will Bring Collapse If Winnie Not Found Soon.

(By Central Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Authorities admitted today they were completely without clues in the hunt for Winnie Ruth Judd, insane murderess. They said that unless she gave up or was captured before nightfall she could not survive another 24 hours in the open.

The 34-year-old blond "Tiger Woman" was in frail health when she walked out of the state asylum for the insane Sunday night. She has an arrested case of tuberculosis. After returning from her first escape six weeks ago she suffered a collapse and had not fully recovered.

She was gone for a week in her first escape but authorities did not believe she could survive that long, in her present condition as a hunted woman sleeping in the open and in sheds, and eating only what little food she could snatch from unguarded kitchens.

There was also the possibility she had already committed suicide. Asylum attendants were certain she took a straight-edge razor with her in her flight; one was missing from the hospital barber shop where she often worked. She was reported to have said in a note that she would rather die than return to the asylum and what she fancied to be persecution.

Trails Turned Cold.

Although she had only a half hour's start when she unlocked a door of the asylum Sunday night and walked out, authorities said they were in the same fix as the two bloodhounds brought from the state penitentiary and put sniffing on Winnie Ruth's trail. The hounds found every trail ran cold and, fagged out, they were sent back to the penitentiary.

The best of the hundreds of tips that poured in was the report of a colored farmhand, John Atkin, who saw a bedraggled woman walking along a dusty desert road outside the city limits toward Camelback mountain, a landmark offering rocky hideaways.

She fitted Mrs. Judd's description and carried a bundle similar to the one the murderess took on her flight. Deputies were searching the mountain.

ILLNESS FATAL TO MISS TAYLOR

Services for Richland Native Set for Friday Afternoon.

Miss Nellie Taylor, 18 Burnese avenue, a Richland county native, died Tuesday afternoon at the home of George Loesch, 316 North Townview circle, where she had lived, after a brief illness.

Miss Taylor was born in Springfield township and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a member of the First Christian church and the Mothers Home circle.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday in charge of Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Now that the robes for the Senior High a cappella choir have been ordered, the problem arises as to where to put them. A LeMoine Derr, director of the choir, had difficulty in getting them but now that they are expected soon, he's having almost as much trouble finding a place to store them. School officials haven't been able to locate a satisfactory storage room and may have to build a large cupboard somewhere in the building.

Naming of a city street dedicated by council last night caused no little comment and brought forth verbal explosions long before Clerk William J. Beer had completed reading the measure. The name proposed was Disposal Plant drive which the city legislators quickly changed to Plant drive after some discussion on whether it should be tagged "Alfalfa avenue," after Councilman George (Alfalfa) Kyle, who has suggested that the city utilize the plant property to raise alfalfa.

While the Christmas Health Seal sale is being conducted almost entirely by mail this year, a group of women from the American Legion auxiliary is doing a land office business in the postoffice. The auxiliary agreed to "picket" the postoffice every day from now until Christmas to sell the tiny seals to people coming in to mail packages and letters, and so far they have done a big business, according to Mrs. Robert Jones who is in charge of the auxiliary workers. More than 75 women of the group have agreed to work in half day shifts. The funds from the sale finance the county's free tuberculosis clinics.

The reacion of movie audiences to minor "boners" was felt last night at the Community Players' production "The Night of January 16" at Senior High school. The audience was literally eating up the testimony and there was a hush when the prosecuting attorney pushed a gun toward a witness and said: Did you ever see this .32 calibre gun before?" Away back in the 20th row a man specator said in a loud whisper, "The prosecutor doesn't know his guns—that's a .22 caliber target pistol!" And so it was.

SEES PEACE HOPE

Senator Clark Optimistic But Hits at War Profits.

CINCINNATI, O.—(INS)—U. S. Sen. Bennett C. Clark, Missouri Democrat, still believes America can stay out of the European conflict despite the fact the neutrality act now permits sale of munitions and war supplies on a cash and carry basis.

Clark, prominent isolationist who opposed repeal of the arms embargo provision of the act, expressed that opinion last night in a speech at the University of Cincinnati.

"I believe we can stay out," the senator declared. "However, a dangerous course is to essay to remain out of the actual conflict, make every penny we can out of the conflict and let nature take its course. That course leads surely to war."

The Missourian warned that the possibility of the establishment of a dictatorship in America would become real if the nation became involved in the European conflict.

COUNCIL OKAYS 13 FUND SHIFTS

Transfers and Appropriations for $19,350 Keep Solons Busy at Session.

City council went in for transfer of funds and supplemental appropriations on wholesale scale at its last regular session of the year last night.

Acting to defray departmental expenditures for the balance of the year, council authorized 13 shifts in the general fund involving the transfer of $3,695 while 10 appropriations totaled $19,350.

Chief among the appropriations made were three amounts totaling $15,300, all of which is to be used for relief purposes. Two appropriations, $4,500 from the water works and $3,800 from the general fund were authorized for the retirement of a note issued in February against anticipated sales tax receipts.

Another $7,000 was earmarked for payment of hospital bills for the care of indigent patients confined in General hospital during December.

In addition council also dedicated a strip of land from Park avenue east to the garbage disposal plant that set the stage for a $7,700 WPA paving project.

Extending the parking ban, it authorized a "no parking" zone on Willis avenue between East Fourth street and East Temple court. The restriction had been requested by property owners.

Two claims for damages were ordered paid, both for damages to property as the result of sewers backing up in basements. One was for $35 to Mrs. Mary A. Johnson and the other for $10.50 was ordered paid to Mrs. Dan O'Connell.

AUDIENCE HAS SWELL TIME AS PLAYERS STAGE COURT DRAMA

By JANE WILLIAMS

A jury of 12 prominent Mansfield men and women brought in a verdict of "guilty" last night against beautiful Karen Andre, for the murder of Loren Faulkner, after deliberating only three minutes.

The verdict was unpopular with the audience, the judge thought it "stank" and ordered the names of the jurors stricken from the jury role for five years, the defendant was all cut up about it—but everyone had a swell time at "The Night of January 16," which the Community Players presented last night at Senior High school.

About 750 persons witnessed it and like all murder trial audiences, everybody in it had loads of fun except the principal actors. The play is one of those courtroom dramas in which the story unfolds as each witness testifies. The audience got right into the spirit of the thing from the beginning when 12 jurors were called from a panel selected from the audience, and the witnesses popped up unexpectedly in the auditorium.

The story is frankly that of Ivor Krueger, the Swedish match king, who was supposed to have committed suicide by leaping from an airplane, but whom many of his financial victims believed had faked the suicide and had sought sanctuary in South America.

In the play a beautiful woman is charged with his murder while the defense attempts to show it was suicide. A dramatic twist comes into the trial when a notorious gangster makes his appearance and testifies that the financial wizard had "planted" the suuicide when he planned to flee to South America, that the body of a slain gangster had been used for the supposed Faulkner body and that the latter had actually been murdered after the "suicide" by his father-in-law.

A succession of witnesses tell the story and from their story the jury made its decision from the evidence presented. Kochenderfer as foreman of the jury, solemnly announced "guilty"—and the jury was promtly berated by the judge for its stupidity.

The whole show was excellently cast and well directed by Mrs. E. K. Bacon, Community Players director. Two "veterans" of the Players, Ben Goodenough and Ferd Loykovich, were the attorneys for the state and the defense, respectively, and did a good job, although they failed to yell and brow beat witnesses in the time-honored courtroom custom.

Three newcomers in character roles did surprisingly good work, each making a clear cut cameo of the character. They were Louis Meisse, who showed professional poise and a sureness in the emotional role of the Swedish secretary; Mabel Owen Ward as the Mae-Westish wife of the slain gangster; and Mrs. Sherman Glessner as the Swedish maid. Betty Osbun, who is seen frequently in community plays, contributed another good character bit as the colored charwoman.

Another newcomer to the Players who will be an addition is Mrs. Jack Berno, who played the role of Karen Andre, the accused woman. Attractive and with considerable poise and restraint, she adds a good voice to natural talent. Her role was closely associated with that of Ruhland Isaly as the gangster. Isaly has appeared in many community plays, but never in a better performance than that of last night.

Richard Nixon as the father-in-law of the slain man, and Mrs. Ben Goodenough as the youthful widow, must also come in for special commendation.

Other witnesses, all of them doing creditable work, were Herbert Slough as the "dumb cop," Dorothea Grimes as a handwriting expert, Henry Neidhamer as the private investigator, and Kenneth Mabee as the doctor. Other roles were played by Daniel Reese as the judge; LaVerne Gunder as the clerk of courts, Robert Parker as the bailiff and Jane Bacon as the prison matron.

SAYS 'DOMESTIC CRISIS' WILL BE TOPIC OF TALK

(By United Press)

MINNEAPOLIS — District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York City makes his first formal speech tonight in his campaign for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination and will state his views on at least two major issues —agriculture and governmental policies.

He will arrive here this morning and will speak tonight at the Minneapolis auditorium at a meeting sponsored by the Minnesota Republican Central committee. The speech will be carried on a nationwide radio hook-up at 10 p. m. (Mansfield time).

Republicans from the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota will attend the meeting. Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota will introduce Dewey.

Before his departure from New York City yesterday Dewey said he would confine his speech to what he called "the domestic crisis" and would not express himself on the international situation. He said he would discuss agriculture and the fundamental theories on which he considers both governmental policy and legislation should be based.

He said he considered the most important problem before the American people to be clarification of fundamental issues in the forthcoming campaign. It is up to the people, he said, to determine in what direction they want the country to go and whether it had been going in that direction in the last seven years.

Dewey Names Advisers.

Dewey announced his candidacy last week. His entry into the race brought to four the number seeking the Republican nomination. The others are Senators Arthur H. Vandenburg of Michigan, Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. In contrast no presidential candidates have declared themselves in the Democratic ranks and the picture is expected to remain incomplete until President Roosevelt announces whether he will run for a third term.

NAMED 4TH TIME

J. C. Friday Re-elected Head of Fish and Game Group.

John C. Friday was re-elected president of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association for the fourth consecutive year at the annual election of officers last evening at North Lake park pavilion.

Other officers named were Eddie Felton, vice president; John Catlett, re-elected secretary; Howard Hyatt, re-elected treasurer; Roscoe McGinty, re-elected membership secretary; Joe R. Heilman, director of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, and William Miller, license secretary.

The association also adopted several resolutions, including a proposal to open the Charles Mill dam area south of U. S. Route 30, for duck hunting and fishing as soon as the state acquires jurisdiction over the territory, and also recomemnded that the squirrel hunting season be closed during 1940 and 1941.
